ART AND NECESSITY IN A MIXUP OVER RUINED PAINTINGS

Comptroller Opposes Appropriation of $10,000, Urged by Commission for Work at Courthouse.

MAYOR POINTS TO SCARCITY OF FUNDS

Remaining Member of Board, However, Is Unqualifiedly for Expenditure—Artists Suggested for Work.

The forces of Art and Necessity are preparing themselves for a coming contest in St. Louis, arising over the ruin of the famous Carl Wimar paintings in the dome of the Courthouse, which were "retouched" by James Lyons, house painter and interior decorator, and spoiled in the process, according to expert opinion.

The chairman of the Municipal Art Commission says that at least $10,000 should be appropriated by the city for redecoration of the dome, and two of three members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment agree that the money should be supplied, while the third brings up the question of necessity of other objects.

Last autumn, when the old Courthouse was repainted, the Wimar paintings, and especially four historical panels which were of great value, got their share of the pigments. Inquiring two weeks ago to see what would be done to remedy the damage, the Post-Dispatch was informed by Director of Public Safety McKelvey, who had charge of the public buildings, that he would seek an appropriation in the next municipal budget, in April, for the work. He said he would be guided by the amount he requests by the judgment of the Municipal Art Commission.

When this advisory organization protested against the destruction of the Wimar works last autumn McKelvey had said he would ask for an appropriation in January, but he explained recently that this was not done because of the state of the city finances.

W. T. Trueblood's Statement. Wilbur T. Trueblood, chairman of the Municipal Art Commission, has been out of the city for some time. In reply to a request he sent the following statement of his idea of what should be done:

"At least $10,000 should be appropriated for the decoration of the courthouse dome. The work should be done under the direction of a competent artist or a group of artists of recognized standing and ability. The whole interior of the dome should be redecorated. Details such as the restoration of the present (Wimar) frescoes, use of gold leaf, etc., should be left entirely to the judgment of the artists. The courthouse is worthy of fine consideration."

Director Holland of the City Art Museum, a member of the commission, said the cost of restoring the Wimar frescoes would vary according to the artist who does the work; one might charge $2000 a panel, while another would charge $5000. He thought $4000 to $5000 would suffice to replace the four historical panels. There are plenty of St. Louis artists capable of doing the work, in his opinion, and he suggested the same group who are engaged in redecorating the State capitol.

Matter of Necessity Arises. So much for Art. The matter of Necessity is one for the consideration of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which must approve appropriations. It has three members. One of them, President Ales of the Board of Aldermen, came out for the cause of Art without qualification. The money ought to be furnished, by all means, he declared.

Mayor Kiel was not so sure that Art ought to get money when Necessity had made it necessary to lay off city employees during the winter, but he was willing to abide by the Municipal Art Commission's recommendations. The third member of the board, Comptroller Nolly, was emphatically against the proposal. "Who would see the paintings way up there in the dome, anyway?" he asked.

Holland was asked to suggest appropriate subjects for new paintings. He thinks it would be well to have the subjects chosen by Wimar reproduced in modern style, but that the question should be carefully considered.

The original subjects of Wimar's four historical panels, the most highly prized specimens of his work in the courthouse, were: "Lacled Landing at the Site of St. Louis."

42 NOBLEWOMEN OF GERMANY IN 1600 APPLYING FOR 1 JOB

Answers to Ad in Munich Paper Indicate Industrial Prosperity Doesn't Help Nobility.

GENEVA, Feb. 9.—An indication of the straits in which many European noblemen find themselves after the war is given in the experience of the American wife of a Geneva banker, who advertised recently in a Munich newspaper for an educated woman secretary with a good knowledge of languages.

The banker's wife offered a salary of 300 Swiss francs (normally $60) monthly, in addition to a comfortable home, and thus far she has received more than 1600 replies from all parts of Germany and Austria.

The applicants include three princesses, nine baronesses and 30 countesses. Many of the applicants want no salary—only a comfortable home.

The answers are taken to indicate that the industrial activity and prosperity does not extend to the nobility and other classes which formerly were wealthy.

SHELL-SHOCKED SOLDIER SEES BROTHER; MEMORY RETURNS

Veteran Wanders Over County Four Years and Found Friendless in Police Court.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 10.—Frank U. Durward, who disappeared from his parents' home on Riverside drive, New York, four years ago, while suffering from the effects of shell shock, recovered his memory in a St. Paul police court yesterday when confronted suddenly by his brother.

The police had arrested him on a vagrancy charge. His brother, O. V. Durward, a Montana rancher, was in court to pay the fine of a robbery.

As Frank Durward started from the courtroom, his case dismissed, he bumped against his elder brother. For a tense moment they stared at each other, then words of recognition broke from them both. As memory returned to the younger man, he became unnerve and sobbed.

An employer of the ranchman said that the Durward family had spent thousands of dollars in searching for the war veteran, who had been wandering over the United States with neither money nor friends.

RECEIVER IS SOUGHT FOR COLUMBIA GRAPHOPHONE CO.

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 9.—Application for receivership of Columbia Graphophone Manufacturing Co., a Delaware corporation, was made today in the United States District Court. Insolvency is alleged.

The amount of the liabilities is put at $19,900,000 to banks and financial creditors, in addition to $2,000,000 to merchandise and other creditors. No listing of assets is made.

The general affidavit charges the increase in the business of the defendant at no time has been proportionate to the enlargements of the capital stock and the making of loans, and that since the middle of 1920 this has been steadily decreasing.

ARMS CONFERENCE REPORT PRESENTED TO PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The report of the American Arms Conference, comprising about 130 closely typed pages was presented to President Harding today at the White House by Basil Miles, secretary of the delegation. The four delegates, Secretary Hughes, Senators Lodge and Underwood, and Elihu Root, were entertained at luncheon by the President following their receipt of the document in the executive offices.

WHOLESALEMADE TO REFUND MONEY ON SPOILED FOOD

L. Cohen Grocery Co. Agrees to Make Good Investment on 500 Cans Seized by State Inspectors.

LOT HAD BEEN SOLD AT REDUCED RATE

Purchaser Says Goods Were From a Quantity That "Couldn't Be Put Out Regular."

When State Food Inspectors, in the city-wide search for spoiled foods being offered for sale, loaded approximately 500 cans of spoiled canned fruits, chiefly blackberries, on to a truck at the Weissmann Packing Co., 2826 Market street, last night, preparatory to taking them to the river, the buyer in the store hurriedly called up the L. Cohen Grocery Co., wholesalers at 1014-1020 North Seventh street, and calling for "Mr. Cohen" began a conversation which at his end was substantially as follows:

"The Food Inspectors have condemned that job you sold me. Will you make it good?"

"Why not? Jake (one of the partners of the Cohen firm) said it was good, only a little spoiled."

"It was a job and it wasn't good."

After a lively discussion of the possibility of the Weissmann company being refunded its investment, the buyer turned to John McDermott, the inspector making the condemnation, and said: "He won't give me a penny."

McDermott took the telephone, and after vigorous talk to Cohen, told the buyer that the wholesaler had agreed to refund the purchase price of the spoiled cans.

Returned Goods Being Resold. In disclosing the existence of an established traffic in spoiled foodstuffs in St. Louis, Food Inspectors declared that several wholesale grocers were reselling among customers in the poorer section swelled and leaking canned goods which other customers had returned as unfit to offer for sale on their shelves. The swelling of a can of vegetables or fruits usually denotes an unhealthy condition within.

The buyer in the Weissmann store, Max Brach, produced an invoice of the Cohen company dated Oct. 2, which he said was an invoice for the lot which included the cans of blackberries and the cans of apples. The invoice was for "30 cases assorted fruits, 60 doz. 60¢." The invoice also contained the name of the return of five cases to the Cohen company.

Brach said that the assortment was chiefly blackberries, lozberries and red raspberries. A chemical analysis of the blackberries for the State department showed them to be spoiled and these were the 500 cans confiscated and destroyed. The other berries are under analysis.

Unlabeled Regular Market Price. Brach said that the price of 60¢ for the lot was from 25 to 50 per cent under the regular market price at the time of his purchase. He related the circumstances leading up to the purchase as follows:

"The Cohen salesman said to me on one of his visits: 'Go down to the house. There's some cheap stuff there you can get reasonably. We can't put it out regular.' He said that he visited the Cohen establishment and obtained the 'job' from a room which was 'full' of similar goods."

Two other of the eight inspectors whom Food and Drug Commissioner Prather assembled this week at St. Louis to break up the traffic in spoiled foods, yesterday visited the store at 2700 Howard street of Manuel Goffstein. The inspectors on Tuesday had visited the store at 145 St. George, run by Goffstein's father, William, and had confiscated about 1000 packages of bad food.

500 Cans Destroyed. In the younger Goffstein's store about 500 cans were chopped open and destroyed. In the lot were several cases of "red kidney" beans of a brand found frequently in stores in the poorer sections of the city. In each case have been found to be bad.

Several of the store proprietors said that they had bought the beans from "Goffstein." Other foods destroyed in the Goffstein store were blackberries, canned milk, mustard, two 10-pound cans of malted milk, salad dressing, horseradish and tomatoes.

Albert Champion to Marry Again. By the Associated Press. ST. LOUIS, Feb. 9.—Albert Champion, 42, president of the Champion Ignition Co., confirmed today his engagement to Miss Edna Crawford, 24, of Kansas City, Mo. It is a fact, however, that the public has not yet received a reduction in the price of its clothes commensurate with the liquidation of fabric prices.

DOCTOR SAYS MODERN BUSINESS METHODS CAUSE NEW DISEASE

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Modern business methods and the wear and tear of professional life in big cities have produced a disease known as chronic fatigue intoxication, about which physicians know little, according to Dr. Edward H. Ochsenruep, who described the disease before the Chicago Medical Society last night.

Dr. Ochsenruep illustrated his discussion of the subject with pictures showing men and women with mouths drawn down, making them look like "chins" or "grouches," and others with smiles which, he explained, indicated anything but a feeling of hilarity.

"The disease attacks only those who are alert, mentally and physically, and who turn out prodigious amounts of work for a time," he said. "The disease causes their muscles to contract, and it is because of the inability to relax that the patients carry a continuous frown on their faces. The disease is caused by poison generated by fatigue."

Wireless Phone for Harding's Use Set Up in White House

Connections Will Be Made Today Giving President New Toy to Play With.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—President Harding has a new toy to play with if he should ever find leisure time to devote to it. A wireless telephone receiving outfit was installed yesterday in the President's study on the second floor of the White House.

Connection with an aerial will be made today and hereafter the President will be able to put the phone to his ears as he sits at his desk in his study and listen to the latest news of the day and the strains of music, concerts and gossip flying through the air.

Wool Man Passes Blame On Says Retail Prices Are Not Commensurate With Fabric Cuts.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Feb. 9.—The wool manufacturer believes he has done his part toward reducing the price of clothing, but also believes that other factors have failed to do their share in bringing prices down, Paul T. Cherington, secretary of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, said at the annual meeting today.

"It has been disappointing to the industry," he said, "that the full benefit that the liquidation it so resolutely faced a year ago, and since that time, has not reached the public. It is a fact, however, that the public has not yet received a reduction in the price of its clothes commensurate with the liquidation of fabric prices."

Dust Drifted Like Snow in Kansas Wind Storm

Serious Damage to Wheat Feared, as Soil Is Blown Away From Roots—Sky Darkened.

By the Associated Press. TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 9.—Severe dust and wind storms which swept across a wide strip of the State yesterday, blew wheat out of the ground in Western and Central Kansas, the heart of the State's wheat belt. No estimate is yet available here as to the extent of the damage. Reports from all parts of Kansas tell of heavy dust clouds which darkened the sky.

The storm had nearly blown itself out today, according to reports received by the Weather Bureau here. Reports from Hutchinson, Salina and other points in the State received here indicate that the wind was strong and heavily laden with sand and dust swept over the devastated farm lands. In places the dust is reported to be drifting like snow.

Prediction that the storm might be expected to continue throughout the day had been made by S. D. Florida, State meteorologist here, who said the disturbance yesterday was one of the most severe in recent years, adding that it was the worst thing that "could happen for the wheat crop."

"The storm is what has been feared might come before the arrival of sufficient moisture to bind the soil," he said. "The winter has been one of the driest in the history of the State. The wheat in the greater part of the wheat areas is barely showing above the ground, and in many areas is not showing at all. This means that it hasn't sufficient root to withstand any windstorm. It is likely to be blown away."

"How much damage has been caused cannot be determined until rain has come or until the fields have been examined to see the condition of the growing plants," he said.

MARIA THERESA'S NECKLACE SELLS FOR $872,000

Pearls Pawned by Charles Are Purchased by Jefferson Davis Cohn, of England.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Feb. 9.—The celebrated pearl necklace which once belonged to Maria Theresa, Queen of Hungary, and which has been on display here, has been bought by Jefferson Davis Cohn of England for £200,000 (about $872,000).

Former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary pawned the heirloom in Switzerland preparatory to leaving the country by airplane in his last attempt to regain his throne.

Jefferson Davis Cohn is a grandson of the Jefferson Davis who was President of the Confederate States of America.

District Attorney Takes Up Taylor Murder Inquiry

T. L. Woolwine Turns Objection Trial Over to Deputy So He Can Handle Investigation of Killing.

By the Associated Press. SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 9.—Belief that a man known both as William Koegel and James Martin, who committed suicide here last Saturday night or Sunday, was Edward F. Sands, sought in connection with the murder of William Desmond Taylor, was expressed today by Coroner S. C. Kelly.

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 9.—The camera of the District Attorney's office was turned toward Hollywood to imprint all the information that can be gathered from actresses, producers, directors and others in order to find a solution of the slaying a week ago last night of William Desmond Taylor, director.

District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine, it was announced, has turned the trial of Mrs. Madeline Oberlin over to his chief deputy and is devoting his attention to the picture case. Complex angles of acts that occurred since the killing, which investigators say give strong indications of connection with the shooting itself, are under scrutiny.

A letter from a packet of letters received by Mabel Normand, the last person known to the police to have been with Taylor, this packet was found late yesterday at the Taylor house in a box in a second-story closet.

According to Miss Normand, Taylor kept these letters in a drawer of his desk on the lower floor. It was announced at the District Attorney's office that the letters would not be made public at this time.

Plans for Investigation. The centralized investigation will be carried on as follows: Questioning of several wealthy and influential producers, one of whom has been questioned before in the case. Questioning of a number of film directors, two of whom have been examined by the police. Questioning of at least four motion picture actresses in an effort to develop further information concerning the theory of a woman being motive for the slaying. Questioning of two men, not connected with motion pictures, suggested by "jealousy" as a motive in the case. Close examination of former employees of the slain director in order to reveal intimacies of the past that came under their observation. Among those who will be asked for information are: Mabel Normand, Mary Miles Minter, Neva Gerber and Claire Windsor, motion picture actresses, the first three of whom have been reported to have been parties to love affairs with Taylor; Henry Peavy, negro houseman, who found Taylor's body; Howard Fellows, former chauffeur of Taylor; Charles Eytan, manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Studios in which Taylor was employed; Mrs. Douglas MacLean, wife of a motion picture actor, neighbor of Taylor, who saw a stranger leaving the Taylor doorway after hearing a shot. Unexplained circumstances surrounding the packet of letters. Miss Normand, who was in company with Taylor until 7:30 o'clock on Wednesday night a week ago, within an hour of the time at which investigators fix for the shooting, visited the house following morning and sought these letters. She said they might be misinterpreted if read by the public, but denied that a love affair existed between Taylor and herself. These letters, she said, were kept by Taylor in the drawer of a desk in the room in which the shooting occurred. He showed them to her several weeks previously in discussing a robbery of the house, mentioning that the letters had not been taken. A second handkerchief found its way into the hands of the investigators when, about the same time that the detectives said they found the letters in a box in a closet in the Taylor apartments. Henry Peavy, Taylor's negro houseman, continued on Page 3, Column 2.

Packet of Letters From Mabel Normand, Found in Slain Director's Home, Held by Official.

FIRST TRAIN MAKES TRIP ON GOVERNMENT RAILWAY TO INTERIOR OF ALASKA

NENANA, Alaska, Feb. 9. By the Associated Press. CREEK street viaduct at Mile 347 made possible the first through train from Seward to Nenana on the Government railroad line Saturday, which was the occasion for a celebration here. A railway delegation made the first trip, which started twice a week service without transfer between the coast and interior.

Although through freight traffic has not yet been inaugurated, the completion of the railroad is said to have caused material reduction in prices of commodities generally and to have revolutionized business methods to the benefit of interior points.

Seward is on Cook Inlet of the Pacific, on the southern coast of Alaska, and Nenana is on the Yukon River, in the middle of Alaska. The road passes in sight of Mount McKinley, the highest point on the American continent.

HARDING GETS REPORT ON RUSSIAN ACTIVITIES

Relief Organization Charged With Sowing Funds to Soviet Instead of to Sufferers.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Secretary Hoover was understood today to have submitted to President Harding a report on the activities of the American Relief Administration in this country and their supposed connection with the Russian relief work.

The report was understood to be the result of an extensive investigation by Hoover into the operation of a number of Russian relief societies operating independently of the American Relief Administration and its allied organizations. It was said to detail for the President's information, the names of certain organizations which were regarded as being directly interested in famine relief in Russia as much as in aiding the soviet authorities in their functions.

President Harding is expected to make public the report in order to inform the country as to the reliability of various organizations soliciting funds for famine relief in Russia.

Russian Famine Committee Calls Charges False

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—The American Committee for Russian Famine Relief in a statement today denounces as false reports that part of the supplies and funds raised by the organization were being sent to the Russian soviet government.

"From the outset," said the statement, "the committee announced that distribution in the famine regions would be made through the Russian Red Cross under American supervision. No money or supplies will be sent to the soviet government."

Herbert Hoover is reported to have sent the following telegram to the committee: "I understand Dr. Dubrowsky says all supplies collected through the Russian Red Cross are dispatched to the soviet authorities for distribution; in fact, that all supplies so shipped have been sent to these authorities. I have not the slightest criticism for anyone of any faith recruiting supplies for famine sufferers, but I doubt whether all the eminent men who have joined your committee are aware of these facts."

THREE INDIAN RIOTERS KILLED

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The British Indian police fired on a mob of natives during a serious riot at Tiruvannamalai, about 82 miles southwest of Madras in the Tanjore district, on Tuesday last, killing three persons and wounding eight, says an Evening News dispatch from Madras, filed Tuesday and received today.

CONGRESS GETS DOWN TO TASK OF WORKING OUT SOLDIER BONUS

Subcommittee of House Ways and Means Body Begins Seriously Attempt to Whip Desires of Administration Into Legislative Form.

HARDEST PROBLEM IS FINDING THE MONEY

Tentative Estimate of $350,000,000 Yearly as Amount Needed for Cash Feature of Legislation Is Made.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—A subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee of the House today began the serious work of whipping into legislative form the desires of the Administration on Soldier Bonus. The two immediate tasks were, first, to determine how much money would be needed for the bonus, and, second, a much harder job, to decide where they could get the money to pay the bonus. Chairman Fordney heads the subcommittee.

"Committeemen said it was not the intention to rely upon any part either of the interest or principal of the British or any other foreign debts in connection with the bonus. They said that something around $350,000,000 a year would take care of the cash payments to be made over the two and one-half years' period, beginning Jan. 1, 1924, and that the finding of definite and certain sources from which to obtain this amount was their immediate concern."

Majority Want Cash. The $350,000,000 estimate, it was explained, was made on the basis of figures presented at public hearings by fiscal officers of the army, navy and marine corps. These figures contemplated 50 per cent of the men who served with the army and 15 per cent of those who served with the navy and marine

MAN KILLED WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO TREE IN PARKWAY

Benton T. Nelson, Auto Repairer, Victim in Accident at 4326 Page—Driver, Injured, Is Held.

DRIVER SAYS HE LOST CONTROL OF CAR

Nurse Knocked Down by Machine Driven by a Woman; Man Struck and Injured by Another Car.

Benton T. Nelson, 59 years old, of 5235 Garfield avenue, an automobile repairer, was killed at 6:45 last night when an automobile in which he was riding suddenly swerved from the roadway in front of 4326 Page boulevard, ran into the parkway in the middle of the thoroughfare and crashed against a tree, overturning.

John Rabbitt, 40, of 2946 Cass avenue, another automobile mechanic, who was driving the car, was cut on the head and face. He was ordered held at the city hospital.

Rabbitt was driving east on the south side of the street. As the automobile approached Pendergast avenue it suddenly veered from its course in the center of the roadway and crossed the curbing skirting the parkway. The parkway is about six inches above the level of the street.

Rabbitt at the hospital today said he was driving at about 15 or 20 miles an hour and that in attempting to pass another automobile just ahead of him he had swerved his car too suddenly as his lost control of the steering wheel.

Nelson's Skull Fractured. Morris Shliper, of 4247 Page boulevard and Max Reiman of 4122 Page boulevard heard the crash as the automobile struck the tree. They righted the car, lifted Nelson and Rabbitt into Reiman's automobile and took them to the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium. Surgeons said Nelson had died from a fractured skull. Rabbitt received emergency treatment and was transferred to the city hospital, where the police ordered him held for the coroner.

Both men were employed at the United States mail garage. Fifteen minutes later the police ordered the car to be taken to the city garage.

Nelson was a widower. He is survived by three children, Mrs. William H. Nelson, of 1409 A. Avenue, and Mrs. W. A. Reedy and Miss Mary Nelson, both of whom resided with their father at the Garfield avenue address.

Nurse Knocked Down by Auto Driven by Woman. Mrs. Jessie Miller, 50, of 4213 Washington boulevard, a nurse at the Jewish hospital, was knocked down in front of 4217 Washington boulevard at 5:30 p. m. by an automobile driven by Miss Abby Maslin, 4749 Westminster place. She was cut on the back of the head and on the right thigh. She refused medical attention.

Joseph Folles, 30, of 4574 Evans avenue, was cut on the scalp when he was knocked down at 10 p. m. by an automobile driven by Ralph Reis, 324 West Hurst street, at Sixth and Cerre streets.

Raymond P. Carney of Nashville, Ill., was arrested after an automobile driven by him north on Union boulevard, at Easton avenue, ran into the back of a motor truck driven in the same direction by Leonardo S. Catanzaro, 5516 Easton avenue. Physicians at Central Dispensary said that Carney had been drinking, and he was ordered held on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

"De Soto Discovering the Mississippi River," "Indian Massacre in St. Louis" and "Western Trail of Empire Takes Its Way." The latter picture was painted by the master to represent buffaloes on the Western plains, but someone wielded a destroying brush after Wimar had left Lyons, so that now it looks something like a river bluff. Lyons signed the Lacade picture, "J. Lyons, '21" when he put his brilliant colors and present white lead upon it.

Julius S. Walsh Sr. of 4210 Lindell boulevard, chairman of the board of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., the Post-Dispatch has learned, is the possessor of Wimar's original sketch, from which this work was done; the sketch is framed and hangs in the Walsh home. It is about 24x42 inches and is in color. Walsh said he would be glad to let a competent artist copy this for the courthouse. He said this was an excellent idea.

Painting Done in 1862. "This scene portrays Lacade's arrival on his exploring trip in 1763, the year before the city was founded," Walsh said in giving the history of the picture. LONDON, Feb. 9.—As the plans are unfolded, the wedding of Princess Mary on Feb. 28—the biggest social event of the year unless the Prince of Wales, too, plunges into matrimony before Dec. 31—takes on more and more the aspect of a modern fairy tale.

Gifts of jewelry, rare and costly gifts, a beautiful trousseau—these, of course, are the basic features. The Princess, dressed in a bridal gown of cloth of silver, veiled with an edifice of silver lace and embroidered pearls, will walk down the aisle of Westminster Abbey through a lane of 2000 chosen guests.

The court train—four yards long, 50 inches wide—has been made of duchesse satin, embroidered in Indian silver and silk with a shawl collar and a row of real pearls down the sides. It was woven by a former soldier whose forbears first brought the industry of weaving to England.

The bridal veil will be of the one worn by Queen Mary at her wedding. The bridemaids' will be of silver tissue and lace. They will wear wreaths of silver corsages.

The Princess's wedding shoes are the gift of the city of Norwich, presented to her in a golden casket lined with white satin.

The wedding gloves are the present of the Worshipful Company of Glovers (the London association of glovemaakrs). They are of reindeer skin, the choicest selection of 10,000 hides.

The official wedding cake is coming from the Edinburgh factory which made the present King and Queen's official cake 29 years ago. There will also be several presentation cakes, one of them standing six feet high.

Her Going-Away Gown. After the wedding the Princess will change into a wonderful going-away gown of powder blue champagne, embroidered in long, narrow line panels from yoke to hip, in silk and in palest of coral beads and crystals, and in the center of the bodice, a row of pearls, and wide sleeves. On top of this she will wear a mole-skin wrap.

It is expected that the first part of the honeymoon will be spent at the home of the Earl and Countess of Bradford, Weston Park, near Shifnal, Shropshire. Their eldest daughter, Lady Diana Bridgeman, will be one of the bridesmaids. It is almost certain that the wedding trip will include a visit to Italy, where the pair probably will visit the beautiful Villa Medici, outside of Florence. It belongs to Lady Sybil Scott, first cousin of Viscount Lascelles, the bridegroom.

If Princess Mary took her complete trousseau with her, which she will not do—it would be an interesting mathematical problem how far the trunks necessary to hold it would stretch if placed end to end.

Here is a descriptive summary of some of her trousseau which will set

Webster Groves to Consider Other Crime Prevention Measures. Following the shooting of William T. Pilcher of 512 South Rock Hill road, Webster Groves, at Jackson road and Lockwood avenue, half a mile north of his home, Monday night residents of the Lockwood avenue neighborhood have hired a private watchman to augment the police protection. The Civic League of Webster Groves, of which Charles King, cashier of the Webster Groves Trust Co., is president, has offered a reward of $500 for Pilcher's arrest, and has called a mass meeting for men at the city hall at 2 p. m. Sunday to consider crime prevention measures. Among other measures it may be decided to establish a permanent reward fund as a deterrent of crime.

Pilcher, who was shot in the left side by one of three strangers who accosted him demanding to know if that was the "antiquarian" neighborhood, is still in St. Luke's hospital. His condition is serious.

Benton (Ill.) Slayer to Hang. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 9.—John Swant sentenced to hang at Benton, Ill., Feb. 24 for the murder of Fritz Heick was denied a rehearing by the Supreme Court this morning.

His health was so poor that the Indians, whom he studied, this sketch was kept by Becker's family until straightened circumstances compelled him to sell it. I bought it from a Locust street art store about 20 years ago for about $100.

The sketch shows a keelboat manned by the pioneers and loaded with supplies, coming in to shore where stand and squat a group of Indians, headed by a gayly dressed chief. The sun is rising through a mist that seems to pervade the scene and the repression, yet strength of color is evident. The panel in the Courthouse shows the same objects, but the mist has been "retouched" away and the sunset and the tree in the brilliant bonnet of the Indian chief.

Mosby's Investigator Gives Him Clean Bill. Report Declares Beverage Inspection Department Is Conducted Efficiently.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 9.—An investigation of the State Beverage Inspection Department by Nike G. Sevier, a Jefferson City lawyer and politician, chosen by Chief Inspector Speed Mosby, head of the department, to make the inquiry after Attorney-General Barrett had publicly charged there was graft in the department, was concluded yesterday with a report highly commendatory of Mosby and his office.

According to Sevier, there not only is no graft in the department, but it is efficiently managed. Sevier, however, said he had not examined the accounts of four deputies who would be used as witnesses by the Attorney-General in a grand jury investigation in Jefferson City next month of alleged padding of expense accounts. Edward G. Linn, a member of the Legislature from St. Louis, was indicted in St. Louis several months ago on a charge of a degree of forgery in connection with alleged padding of accounts of beverage inspectors.

Mosby Appointed Investigator. When the Attorney-General made known the charges in the Davidson case, Mosby expressed surprise, and offered to select an expert to examine the accounts of the four who were to go thoroughly into the department's affairs and report to Barrett. Barrett consented and Mosby chose Sevier.

Mosby is one of the hold-over officials from the last Democratic administration. He is a former member of the Missouri House of Representatives and was a member of the Missouri Senate. He was a member of the Missouri House of Representatives and was a member of the Missouri Senate.

He reported he had "examined" item by item, the expense accounts of the employees, except the witnesses in the Davidson case, and had found no evidence that the accounts had been padded.

PRINCESS MARY OF ENGLAND.

the styles of those who follow royal fashions:

Wild rose georgette evening gown with long embroidered waist of pink crystal beads, draped from either side of a slightly long dress and caught at the waist with huge roses of pink crystal. This has a round neck and short sleeves.

An afternoon gown of black georgette, cut in straight, simple lines, with double flounces and georgette edged bands of sable and squirrel. The neck is square and fits into a dainty bodice. The sleeves reach to the elbow.

Another afternoon gown is of corn flower blue crepe de chine, cut in a straight line with a square neck and three-quarter sleeves. The skirt is lightly draped at the sides and tucked to form squares and the bodice is held in with bands of blue crepe de chine.

Ratine Frock and Wrap. There is the dark blue velvet ratine frock and wrap. The frock is on long lines with the square neck and three-quarter sleeves. The wrap is of black crepe de chine with a square collar and a lace vest. The skirt is cut in downward tucks, embroidered with groups of gunmetal studs. The coat is cut short in front, with a long back and a stand-up collar, gray fur cuffs to match and embroidered in diamond designs of gunmetal studs.

Another is a deep cream real lace evening gown, with straight panels and draped baby bodice. The skirt is slightly draped at the sides and caught in at the waist with a chiffon sash held in place with bunches of pink roses and holding up cascading lace.

Then comes a black georgette and sequined dress, embroidered in panel design with sequins, made in straight lines with square neck, short sleeves and an embroidered circle about the waist.

Another evening gown has an underdress of orchid mauve satin, lilies gleaming with silver sequins around the neck and on the bodice. A white embroidered evening gown has a crepe de chine underdress, a bodice embroidered with a beautiful design of coral beads, giving a shield effect, with a pointed neck. There is a lace underskirt and hanging from the bodice is a heavy beaded nacre fringe. It is heavily embroidered in silk and has a jumper trimmed with white and blue beads, with three-quarter sleeves.

A gray crepe de chine jersey afternoon frock embroidered in the same color has a round throat and is pleated on either side, with two little sleeves.

A sweet pea tea gown has mauve chiffon pleated over blue, with a fine white lace edging. The overdress and sash are of the same color as the gown, finished at either hip with a huge begonia.

An afternoon frock is specially crepe de chine, with a waistband of old rose and blue satin ribbon and floating ends on each side.

Coat of a New Material. Navy serge—a new material—forms coat and frock embroidered in royal blue silk and black-brown braid in trellis squares. The sleeves are big and wide and there is a steel grille held with an oxidized steel buckle. The bodice is of pink georgette and lace.

A wrap coat of mole velvet has a large mole fur shawl collar and oxidized embroidery on the sleeves. A wrap of black and gold velvet, lined with pink charmeuse, cut straight in the back, with kimono sleeves and inner sleeves, is finished in georgette, with fur cuffs. A natural blue fox forms a square collar and cuffs.

For wear over the wedding dress is a wonderful Russian ermine stole wrap, very wide at the shoulders and giving the effect of a cape with stole ends. There is a fringe of ermine balls around the neck. It is lined with white brocade velvet covered with white chiffon.

The going away coat is of moleskin with alternate stripes of fur. A mole pillow muff goes with the coat. The trousseau also includes nearly a dozen knitted silk jumpers of different colors. There are a number of same-colored nightgowns, and others for country wear, of mushroom shape.

Finally, there is a large collection of shoes of every variety for all occasions.

Presentations and announcements of forthcoming gifts continue to arrive in large numbers. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool was received in person by Princess Mary. He presented her with a diamond bracelet in a gold box on behalf of that city, and the Lord Provost of Glasgow, for that city, brought a dressing gown of Edinburgh silk, with a lining of English cut crystal. Edinburgh is giving her the "Mary Queen of Scots" brooch, with the initial "M" in the center, surrounded by two hearts and a crown.

The Girl Guides of the British Empire are giving the Princess, who is their president, a rare silver brooch, which was made in 1745. They are also giving her a diamond Ruby and two silver statues of a guide and a brownie.

The British Cabinet collectively is making a presentation of a piece of antique furniture, and the diplomatic corps is also combining to give a presentation of a piece of antique furniture.

The British residents in Paris are sending a gift. Lord Lascelles is giving the Princess the family Clancarde jewels, now being reset for her.

Acquitted of Robbery Charge. Jesse Newshaw Freed When Witness Fails to Identify Him.

Jesse Newshaw, 219 Perry street, was acquitted of a charge of first degree robbery yesterday when Circuit Judge Hogan sustained a demurrer. The jury was ordered to find Newshaw not guilty. Theodore J. Mortens, 3137A North Thirteenth street, failed to identify Newshaw as one of the two men who held up the office of the Meritens Ice and Fuel Co. at 3550 Garfield avenue, on July 25, 1921. It was made a condition of his release that he should be a witness in the case. A doubt had arisen in his mind, after the grand jury had indicted him for the robbery, Frank Ephraim, 2504 Clinton street, jointly indicted with Newshaw for the robbery, obtained a separate trial.

State administration. Sevier was a clerk in the office of the State Tax Commission under that administration. He has been active with Mosby in Cole County Democratic politics for a number of years, and formerly was Prosecuting Attorney for Cole County. His salary as investigator was $150 a month, paid by the State for two months.

Barrett to Comment Later. After reading Sevier's report, Barrett said he would have comment to make regarding it within a few days, and that he thought it not unlikely he could select an expert to examine the accounts of the four who were to go thoroughly into the department's affairs and report to Barrett. Barrett consented and Mosby chose Sevier.

POLITICAL ASPECT OF BONUS SORELY WORRIES CONGRESS

Members Not Sure Granting of It Now Will Soothe Feeling of Men Who Charge Neglect.

TAXPAYERS' WRATH ALSO LOOMS AHEAD

"I Shall Receive Bonus as Ungratefully as It Is Grudgingly Given," Ex-Serviceman Writes.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1922.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The soldier bonus has become the biggest political and economic issue before the United States Government.

As Congress looks around for things to be taxed and sees political dangers arising from the non-soldier, the task of voting the bonus becomes increasingly distasteful.

The Secretary of the Treasury has told Congress that the money for a bonus can be raised by taking tobacco and cigarettes, gasoline, as well as each automobile, depending upon the horsepower, by taxing documents in real estate and legal transactions and by requiring every body who cashes a check to affix a stamp thereto on presenting it for payment. Besides this, an increase of 2-cent to 1-cent postage is being seriously considered.

Some of the Government experts figure it out that the effect of a bonus raised in that way will be to increase the cost of living for the members of his family pay out of pocket what he will be receiving in another.

Already the Congress fears the political wrath of the country for failing to reduce taxes on the war veterans, and now to add instead of subtract taxes is something which Republicans as well as Democrats far prefer to avoid.

MEN ACCUSED OF GAMING FREED TO WAIT ON DINERS

35 Negroes Race Back to Hotel and Impatient Guests.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 9.—Diners at one of the large downtown hotels waited impatiently for service last night. The management started a city-wide search for the waiters when the patrons became impatient and demanded service.

The search ended at police headquarters. Thirty-five of the hotel waiters, negroes, had been arrested in a craze game in a nearby house. A hurry-up call to police headquarters brought back the missing waiters, who raced through the downtown district on foot.

The patrons turned back to the dining room, assured of something more sustaining physically than the strains of the hotel orchestra.

The negroes will face a gambling charge in the South Side Police Court today, with the hotel management pledged to see that every one of the 35 is there.

150,000 SAVING AT POSTOFFICE IN YEAR EXPECTED

NO EMPLOYEES TO BE DISMISSED, HE SAYS

Many Runs of Trucks Abolished—Business Men Urged to Mail Earlier to Relieve Rush.

A program of economies in the postal service, which it is hoped will save the Government at least $150,000 this year, was the object of a visit to Washington this week by Postmaster General C. E. Caine, who is in charge of the postoffice here. He is expected to return to St. Louis tomorrow, after a brief stay in the city. Caine, who is a member of the National Association of Postmasters, is expected to return to St. Louis tomorrow, after a brief stay in the city. Caine, who is a member of the National Association of Postmasters, is expected to return to St. Louis tomorrow, after a brief stay in the city.

Inspector Caine believes it will be possible to effect a considerable saving in the cost of operating the postoffice by making a few changes in the handling of mails. It was reported that he had already effected such changes in the handling of mails in the New York postoffice. Caine is expected to return to St. Louis tomorrow, after a brief stay in the city. The Taylor estate, once valued at as much as $50,000, will not amount to more than $20,000, the Public Administrator stated, unless unknown bank accounts are located. Miss Ethel Daisy Tanner of New York, the director's daughter, is the sole claimant to the estate. It is said that the director's effects were valued at several hundred thousand dollars. Many were drawn in connection with loans, it was said, and were being held by prominent persons in the film colony.

A similar statement as to a possible arrest was made by Detective Sergeant Edward King, attached to the District Attorney's office. Man Said to Resemble Sands. The Sheriff's office at Tucson, Ariz., yesterday advised the Sheriff of Los Angeles County that Walter Peterson of Tucson had reported having met, at Lowell, Ariz., on Feb. 4, a man who answered the description of Sands. Peterson told the Arizona Sheriff that the man with whom he talked said he had worked in Los Angeles and was familiar with Hollywood. He also said, according to the message, that he had been in the British navy, but he had deserted and that he was then on his way to the Imperial Valley of California. He did not say why he was going there by way of Arizona.

As suddenly discovered a handkerchief bearing the initials "M. M. M." A handkerchief previously reported found near the body shortly after the murder was discovered, but since said to be missing, was said to bear the letter "S."

Yesterday's developments. A statement that the body of Taylor had been placed in order before the police arrived to investigate the slaying was made by F. Parsons, a member of the "Flying Squadron" of police which answer hurry calls, the police have made known. A new search of Taylor's apartments made by the Public Administrator, aided by police detectives, yesterday, disclosed a bank book which had belonged to Sands, it was stated.

Want Mailing Done Earlier. "We want the business men to mail earlier, instead of letting their letters accumulate until late in the afternoon, so we can pick up the mail at the postoffice very early in the morning. We want to spread the mailing out through the day and eliminate some complaints about delivery. Co-operation of this kind will insure a marked economy and improve the service."

Caine was unable to say what amount of money could be saved in operating the postoffice, but said there would be a curtailment of the number of auxiliaries. Some services would be consolidated, and improvements will be made in the delivery of mail collection services. Auxiliary help in the St. Louis office is estimated at $240,000 a year, and while Caine would not say what part of this he hopes to save, it is believed his intentions are to scale down this amount to as small an amount as the service will stand.

HARD DAY FOR TWO VETERAN SERGEANTS

Board Dismisses One, Reduces Other Whose Uniform Was Dry When It Rained.

The Police Board sat yesterday afternoon and heard tales of the deprivations of department veterans. There was the Sergeant with 26 years of service behind him whose uniform was dry when it should have been wet. The board reduced him to the rank of patrolman, discounting his explanation that he kept dry by hopping street cars.

First Case Is Called. Sergeant Martin King of the Sixth was called. He strode to the place in front of the high place, his cap held over his head. He was nervous and uncomfortable. This was one thing for which his 26 years' service poorly fitted him. The charge of Inspector Gerk was read, that at 3:35 a. m. on Feb. 1, he found Sgt. King sitting in the office of the street car barn at Grand and Kossuth avenues with his uniform dry, when outside the rain had been falling for an hour and a half, which should have moistened the uniform of a Sergeant patrolling his precinct. Not guilty was the Sergeant's plea. The Inspector told his story. He had rubbed the Sergeant's coat with his hand and found it dry. He did not ask how long the Sergeant had been in there, but it must have been a long time, as it had been raining since 10 or 15 minutes after 2, part of the time hard.

Will of C. L. Martin Filed. Disposition Made of His Interest in Crunden-Martin Company. Disposition is provided for 380 shares of preferred stock and 245 shares of common stock of the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co. in the will of Charles L. Martin, vice president of this company, which has been filed for probate at Clayton, Mo. Martin, who was 64 years old, and lived at 30 Joy avenue, Webster, died of pneumonia last Monday.

plimented his previous testimony King was not privileged to hear it. The board came back and President Miller announced that he had been found guilty and reduced to the rank of patrolman. King saluted and withdrew. Harder on This Sergeant. Against Sgt. O'Meara, Capt. Singleton was complaining witness. He told how a complaint, received by President Miller concerning a grocery on Lambdin avenue, at which liquor was said to be sold on Sunday, and concerning negroes who shot dice at Lambdin and Kennerly avenues, had been turned over to O'Meara. In respect to the first, O'Meara had reported vaguely and imperfectly, and in respect to the second he had reported not at all. O'Meara had this to say, that he had reported concerning the grocery all that there was to report, namely, the rank of patrolman, discounting his explanation that he kept dry by hopping street cars.

Verdict for Attack by Worker. A verdict for $3000 was returned yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge Klen's court in favor of Miss Jamie Nancy of Madison, Ill., against the Angel Restaurant Co., which conducts the Arco Cafeteria, at Broadway and Locust street, on account of an injury to her right arm received June 28, 1920. She alleged that she was struck by a male employee and knocked down and her right arm was broken. The defendant was a man of vicious temperament and therefore was liable for his conduct.

De Soto. Here is De Soto—a Lion Custom Collar, the first of a series of new custom collars, designed, cut, stamped, stitched, laminated and boxed in a custom manner, entirely different from the usual hand-made collar, yet available at the best shops for the same retail price. To the man who has thought it necessary to pay a higher price for imported or special collars in order to secure custom styles and finish, the Lion Custom Collar will fill a long felt want. To the man who is looking for value plus custom finish— Lion Custom Collars represent the best value possible to obtain. If not obtainable at your dealer's, mail your order direct to us.

All these drug stores except the last named served as distributing points for the tickets for the second concert.

The third concert of the Post-Dispatch series of five will be given Saturday morning, Feb. 18, beginning at 10:30, in the Missouri Theater, Grand and Lucas avenues. The guests of the Post-Dispatch, who are invited to get their tickets at the drug stores in their own neighborhoods on Saturday of this week, will be children 10 years old and under, pupils of white grammar or high schools.

Some Numbers on Program. Wagner's "Tannhauser" march, two Hungarian dances by Brahms, and Massenet's "Meditation" from the "Traviata" will be the program for the concert.

SPRINKLING INVESTIGATION BY BOARD OF ALDERMEN PROPOSED

Resolution to Be Presented Tomorrow Will Also Direct Inquiry Into Plans for City Doing Work.

A resolution calling for an investigation by the Board of Aldermen into the methods of city sprinkling contractors, and into the question whether the city could profitably abandon the contract system and take over the sprinkling work, will be introduced into the Board of Aldermen at tomorrow's session by Alderman Heckel. At Heckel's request City Counselor Caulfield today drafted the resolution.

The City Counselor said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he believed the Aldermen would have power to summon the contractor, and to require them to state what distribution was made of the funds collected by the bank, under assignments made to it by all the holders of the 1921 sprinkling contracts.

Two Fined $25 Each for Violating 'Pullers' Ordinance. Men, One a Clerk, Arrested for "Soliciting" Trade for Clothing Company. Frank Bass and Rubin-Levit were fined $25 each in Police Court today for violating the "pullers" ordinance. Bass is a clerk for the Hild Clothing Co., Sixth street and Lucas avenue. He was charged with "pulling" in front of the store, to stand in front of the store and keep "pullers" from rival stores from taking window gazers away from the Hild store.

Each Rum "Run" a Violation. Special to the Post-Dispatch. MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 9.—Every run of liquor from a moonshine still makes the owner guilty of a felony under the bone-dry laws of Alabama, and the grand jury may indict the person every day or as many times each day as runs are made, under a decision of the Court of Appeals yesterday, in the case of Richard Childers, who had been convicted of violating the bone-dry law. He had been sentenced to from one and one-half years to two and one-half years in the penitentiary.

Burglars in the Home of Fredrick J. Westerman, 3726 California avenue, in the absence of the family yesterday obtained $50 and jewelry valued at $175.

John Rawie, 46 years old, who was released from the penitentiary at Jefferson City Sunday, after having served a two-year sentence for burglary, was arrested last night at Fourteenth street and Lafayette avenue in connection with the robbery of the Farmers' State Bank at Valley, Mo., which occurred Nov. 6, 1920, just two days before Rawie was sent to the penitentiary on the burglary charge.

Russian Newspapers Sell for 2000 Rubles a Copy. Correspondence of the Associated Press. STOCKHOLM, Jan. 21.—Russian newspapers now, for the first time in years, selling daily papers in the streets of Moscow, merely exchange a bundle of paper for an armful of rubles. Street sales of daily newspapers are now permitted in all Russian cities, according to Russian correspondents of Stockholm papers. The Moscow Ivestia, formerly given free of cost by the Soviet Government to Soviet officials was put on sale at 2000 rubles a copy. A boy who sold 50 of them would be loaded down with 100,000 rubles in Bolshevik currency.

Switchman Killed Under Train. Earl W. Potterfield, 42 years old, of 1246 Southwest avenue, a switchman for the Terminal Railroad Association, was killed at 7 a. m. today when he slipped and fell between the train on which he was working, on Poplar street, between Ninth and Tenth streets. More than a dozen cars passed over his body. He is survived by his widow.

MARKET STREET
AT ELEVENTHFARMER, LOCKED IN CELLAR, KILLS SELF WITH SHOTGUNFire Upon Deputy Sheriff, Who Hurt
"Tear" Bomb Into Cellar, and Find Him Dead.Conrad Zeisel, 24 years old, a farmer in Caseyville Township, Illinois, about 14 miles east of St.
Louis, was found dead in the cellar of his home at 1 p. m. today with his left side torn by buckshot, after he had held at bay four Deputy Sheriffs who had surrounded the house since yesterday morning.Zeisel left his work in the field Tuesday afternoon and went into the house, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Zeisel, were entertaining guests. He snatched up two shotguns, filled his coat pocket with loaded shells and went into the cellar, barricading the door.The parents and their guests fled from the house when Zeisel began firing through the floor above. Sheriff Schnipper at Belleville was notified and he sent his deputies to the Zeisel farm yesterday morning. Zeisel fired intermittently from the windows of the cellar, but did not hit anyone. At 5 p. m. yesterday he quit shooting and nothing more was heard from him.At 1 p. m. today, after a "tear" bomb, procured by Sheriff Schnip-per in St. Louis, had been thrown into the cellar, deputies broke open the door. They found Zeisel dead on the floor. He evidently had killed himself with the last shot fired yes-

CO-OPERATIVE SELLING BILL PASSES SENATE

Vote of 58 to 1 Gives Farm Bloc Its Most Sweeping Victory.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The House co-operative marketing bill, a measure designed to aid the agricultural interests and passed by the farm bloc, was passed by the Senate yesterday. Only one vote, that of Senator Gerry, Democrat, of Rhode Island, was cast against the measure. Two other Senators—Brandages, Republican, of Connecticut, and King, Democrat, of Utah, were paired against the measure and withheld their votes. The vote was 58 to one and the Senate's action was regarded by some as the most sweeping victory yet attained by the farm bloc.

As passed by the Senate the bill retains the provisions which relieve the co-operative associations from the application of laws prohibiting trusts or unfair business practices, placing the authority to determine when such acts have been committed with the Secretary of Agriculture. The Senate Judiciary Committee's substitute would have made the associations amenable to the present laws and it was around this point that debate revolved.

Debate on Measure.
During the closing hours of debate yesterday reference was made to the bloc's power. This brought from Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, the statement that he had heard the bill had administration support.

"It is the first time in many, many months that the majority has come over to my side," he added. "Maybe the administration is behind this bill. If it is so, then I am glad they have come into the same wagon with me. Whether they came because of me or in spite of me I don't know. I welcome them here." The bill was introduced simultaneously in the House and Senate in April of last year. It was soon acted on by the House, but when it reached the Senate it lay in committee for several months. More delay came after it was reported to the Senate and it was sidetracked for one reason or another until a week ago, when it was made the unfinished business of the Senate.

The most important of the amendments accepted by the Senate was one providing "that the associations shall not deal in products of non-members to an amount greater in value than such as are handled by it for members."

Effect of Amendment.
This, it is contended, makes it impossible for co-operative associations to be "taken over" by a group of individuals who merely by declining to admit new members resolve themselves into a closed corporation. Without the amendment, the groups would be able, according to Senators, to engage in competitive trade, buying other farmers' products to an unlimited extent. The amendment limits any association in the handling of the commodities of nonmembers so that what was described as a "throttle of local business could not be obtained."

Other important provisions of the bill prescribe that no member of an association may have more than one vote in directing its activities, regardless of the amount of stock he holds, nor can any association pay dividends on stock of membership capital in excess of 8 per cent a year. With respect to the authority granted the Secretary of Agriculture to control attempts to monopolize or restrain trade, the bill provides that notice of charges or alleged violations must be served on the offending association and it must be given an opportunity to defend itself. If found guilty of the charges the Secretary of Agriculture may order the association to "cease and desist" and in event of its failure to do so, the case may then be referred to the Federal courts for enforcement of the order and the filing of such decrees as the courts deem equitable.

JAMES M. BECK TO SPEAK HERE

Solicitor-General to Address Bar Association Monday.

An unusual gathering of the judiciary is expected at the banquet of the St. Louis Bar Association in honor of James M. Beck, Solicitor-General of the United States, to be held at Hotel Statler ballroom next Monday evening.

The Judges of the following benches have been invited and their acceptances are being received: State Supreme Court, St. Louis Court of Appeals, Federal Court of Appeals, St. Louis Federal Court, East St. Louis Federal Court, St. Louis St. Louis County and St. Clair County Circuit Courts. Solicitor-General Beck's address will be the only one at the banquet, at which Daniel Kirby, president of the Bar Association, will preside. Students of the various law schools here have been invited to attend.

DANDERINE STOPS HAIR COMING OUT ALSO THICKENS IT

"Danderine" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application stops all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few months, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks, when you see your hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and lustrous.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—ache, headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

COMPANY LIMITED IN BUSINESS, SAYS MERZ

Bridge Concern, Official Tells Trade Commission "Pittsburg Plus" Destroys Competition.

By the Associated Press. MILWAUKEE, Feb. 8.—There is only one point in the United States where the Milwaukee Bridge Co. can sell structural steel on an even basis with competitors, and that is in Milwaukee. Henry M. Merz, vice president of the company, told the Federal Trade Commission. By availing itself of the "fabrication in transit" prevailing, Merz said, his company could land its bridge parts in western points for the same transportation charges as the Pittsburgh bridge builder, by paying two cents "penalty," as he characterized it, on every hundred pounds. To gain this "fabrication in transit" rate, he explained, he had to buy the steel in Pittsburgh and ship it to Milwaukee, where it is fabricated or cut to required sizes and shapes, and sent on to its destination. The total freight charge in such instances, he said, was the through rate from Pittsburgh, plus 2 cents per hundred pounds—this rate being made by the Interstate Commerce Commission to offset the Pittsburgh firms' through rate advantages.

Steel Bought in Chicago. Merz testified, however, that his company purchased about 70 per cent of its steel in the Chicago district, on which the "fabrication in transit" prevailing was eliminated. The Chicago purchases, he said, were made at a price representing a base price in Pittsburgh, plus the freight rate from Pittsburgh to Milwaukee, a system which is alleged in the present investigation by the commission, to work discrimination against the western steel consumer. "We cannot sell any of our products east of Milwaukee except at a great handicap," Merz testified. "If we buy in Pittsburgh, we can sell in the west, a penalty of two cents per 100 pounds under the fabrication in transit, prevailing. We are always at a disadvantage with eastern competitors because of Pittsburgh plus freight charges. The only city in which we can compete on even terms is right here in Milwaukee."

On cross examination, however, the witness said that the two-cent fabrication "penalty," was not a serious handicap. Merz maintained that all his company's steel was purchased on a Pittsburgh base, with the transportation charges to Milwaukee added, and produced a quantity of invoices and contracts covering a period of 10 years to substantiate his statements. Attorney W. W. Corlett, for the United States Steel Corporation, respondents in the investigation, sought to show that all invoices showed a price for the steel delivered in Milwaukee. The witness interpreted this price, however, as being the Pittsburgh base, plus freight charges from Pittsburgh. He obtained the Pittsburgh base prices from trade journals, he said, and asked if different companies did not quote different base prices. Merz declared they "checked to a penny."

ride in a tourist sleeper to California

Any line to Kansas City thence the Santa Fe.
Eat Fred Harvey meals, at Santa Fe station dining rooms—lunch counters, when preferred.
Spend the money thus saved for a little longer stay in the land of no winter.
Tourist sleepers are carried on three of Santa Fe's four trains to California—the Navajo, Scout and Missionary.
Berth rate about half that charged in standard Pullman. And you travel comfortably.
You will enjoy stopping a couple of days at Grand Canyon, en route.
May I have the pleasure of helping plan your trip? Just drop me a line, or phone, or call. Only too glad to render any assistance possible. You will enjoy looking over our new "California Picture Book"—ask for it.

NEGRO HAIRDRESSER IS ALSO INVENTOR OF AUTO ACCESSORIES

Non-skid Brake and Pay-as-you-Enter Fare Box for Taxicabs Among Devices Patented.

A non-skid brake for automobiles, a "pay-as-you-enter" farebox for taxicabs, and an attachable heating device to prevent water from freezing in radiators of cars are among the dozen or more appliances patented by Walter L. Majors, negro, 23 years old, proprietor of "Majors' Oxford College of Hair Dressing and Beauty Culture," 424 West Belle place, who declares he "thinks up inventions in three or four days."

Majors, who makes all of his models at home with only a few tools, has turned out one or more inventions annually for the last 12 years. He has just been notified that the Patent Office at Washington has accepted his non-skid device. The appliance, a rod and anchor attachment for the rear wheels of cars, drops to the pavement when a lever on the steering gear is pressed, raises the wheels slightly and stops the automobile's skidding.

The "pay-as-you-enter" device for taxicabs, which relieves drivers of making collections, is a coin control box in which the passenger drops the amount necessary to carry him to his destination.

Other inventions patented by Majors are an attachment for a mimeograph machine to print one to three colors at a single operation, a simplified coal oil stove, a scalp cleansing and treating machine, and a machine for drying women's hair in less than five minutes. Majors has a good income from his inventions.

Do this as often as may be required to keep nose and throat antiseptic. Do it the last thing at night and first thing in the morning until the flu epidemic has passed.

Head colds and catarrh yield like magic to this antiseptic, healing cream that soothes swollen, inflamed membranes of nose and throat. Your clogged nostrils open right up and you can breathe freely. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable.

ADVERTISMENT.

Fine for Neuralgia

Musterole insures quick relief from neuralgia. When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, just rub a little of this clean, white ointment on your temples and neck.

Musterole is made with oil of mustard, but will not burn and blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Get Musterole at your drug store, 25¢ a 6¢ jar and tube; hospital size, $3. Better Than a Mustard Plaster.

ADVERTISMENT.

NEGLECTED OF COURSE

Every day we are shocked at reading in the daily newspapers the death of some well known man or woman of society prominent in business, civic or social life. What caused their sudden death?

Well, it happened from a simple cold neglected of course—but terminating fatally—pneumonia. Take no chances when you have a cold. Get a package of Musterole Fluoid Ties from your drug store, 25¢ a 6¢ jar and tube; hospital size, $3. Better Than a Mustard Plaster.

Mother and Son—Both

DARYL WILSON is a prize winner—having been awarded first prize at a baby show in Milwaukee. Borden's Eagle Brand Milk has been his food and Mrs. Wilson attributes his wonderful health and perfect physique to that. She herself was brought up on Eagle Brand too. And her baby started life with a fine constitution, although she gives chief credit to his food.

Thousands of mothers, besides Mrs. Wilson, have testified to the benefits of Eagle Brand as an infant food. Thousands of doctors have recommended it in difficult feeding cases, because Eagle Brand is easily digested.

Here is a case of two generations of Eagle Brand babies—both mother and son. For Eagle Brand has been the standard baby food for a great many years.

Don't experiment with your baby. Borden's Eagle Brand Milk is the natural food when mother's milk fails—for it is nothing but pure milk and sugar.

WOMAN PLEADS NECESSITY WHEN FOUND TENDING STILL

Mrs. Krainovich Not Arrested When She Tells of Five Children Who Need Support.

Police found a still in operation at the home of Michael Krainovich, 2923 Chouteau avenue, last night. Krainovich was not home. His wife, who was tending the still, was not arrested when she pleaded that their five children, her husband having been out of work two months. The police had no search warrant. They destroyed five gallons of prune mash and confiscated the still.

A policeman in civilian clothing bought a stein of what he took to be home-brewed beer at the saloon of Conrad Hasenpflug, 2139 Chouteau street, yesterday, and then obtained a Federal search warrant. Police-men and a Federal agent raided the place and found a barrel of what they said was home brew, connected to a service tap. They took a sample and destroyed the rest. While they were there, Hasenpflug brought a jug of alleged whisky downstairs. He and his bartender were arrested. Police-men who were suspicious of an automobile parked in an alley at the rear of 2515 South Second street, without lights, last evening, arrested a man who was about to enter the machine and who had a suit case containing a rubber water bag, glass jars and a jug and drinking glasses, all of which had an odor like that of whisky. No liquor was found. The man was booked for Police Court for not having lights on the machine. He gave the name of Michael Bilek, Madison.

Sermons on Unemployment.

Ministers of all denominations throughout the city have been asked by the Community Council to preach sermons on unemployment Sunday and to urge members of their congregations to have all the work possible done immediately to help relieve the unemployment situation. The Church Federation, the Ministerial Alliance, Archbishop Glennon and the Jewish Welfare Association have promised to co-operate in the movement.

FATHER DEMPSEY'S HOTELS END YEAR WITH $856 DEFICIT

Working Men's Buildings Crowded to Capacity — More Furniture for Working Women's Home.

The Rev. Father Tim Dempsey's hotels for working men and working women and his day nursery, where children of working women are cared for while the mothers are at work, were operated at a cost of $37,420.46 in 1933, and the receipts were $36,564.47.

The deficit of $856.99, Father Dempsey explained, was due to the fact that the working women's hotel was not furnished to provide accommodations for the number of persons the hotel might hold. Just as will be overcome this year, he said.
The debt on the working women's home was reduced from $10,000 to $5500.

For several months the capacity of the men's hotel has been taxed to the limit of 280. In the Day Nursery 300 children, brought each morning by their mothers, were cared for during the day by the Sisters of Charity. The average number of persons registered at this working women's hotel each day was 71.

Receipts for beds and rooms at the men's hotel amounted to $12-988.77, while the receipts for rooms and board at the hotel for women reached a total of $4228.50. Donations to the three institutions totaled $9500. The total number of free and paid lodgings at the men's hotel was 88,555, and the number of free meals furnished there was 7665. Employment was obtained for 153 men.
There were 11 deaths at this hotel and three burials in Exiles' Rest, at Calvary Cemetery. Employment was obtained for 75 women. The number of free meals served to women was 500 and free lodgings totaled 200. There was one death at this hotel in the year.

COURT RULES CHECK GIVEN IN DICE GAME NEED NOT BE PAID

Verdict Awarded in Favor of Man Who Lost $420 in New York in 1920.

In finding that Morris Feinstein of 1238 North Leffingwell avenue need not pay $420 to Louis J. Simons of New York, a jury in Judge Davis' Court yesterday based its verdict on the law which makes a gambling debt uncollectable.

Feinstein testified that when he was in New York buying merchandise, July 5, 1920, he was introduced to Simons and Edmund S. Silz, who volunteered to "show him the town."
They went to Feinstein's room, he said, and one of the men suggested that they shake dice to see who should pay for the dinner. No money was put up, Feinstein testified, but it was agreed that losses were to be paid by check.

Feinstein said in the first few minutes of the game he won $100.
Then Simons dropped out, he said,
and he and Silz continued the game until Feinstein had lost $420. He said he gave Silz a check for this amount, but dated it a month later than the date of the game. Feinstein testified that on the day after the game he withdrew all of his money from the bank on which the check was drawn.

In a suit against Feinstein for the $420 Simons alleged that he cashed the check for Silz and that it came back from the bank with the notation, "no funds." Neither Simons nor Silz appeared in court. It was said that Silz had gone to Paris, France.
Simons' deposition was read. The case originally was decided in Feinstein's favor in a justice of the peace

"DELIVER US FROM FRIENDS," NEW MOTTO FOR POLICEMEN

Board Warns Men "for Last Time" of Results That Will Follow Attempt to Use "Pull."

The Police Board, in a special order issued today, let it be known "for the last time" that policemen seeking promotion or leniency had better not be sending their friends to the Police Commissioners to intercede in their behalf.

"The board is tired of being bothered by persons asking favors for policemen," said President Miller. "Policemen seeking promotion will have to rely upon their own merit, and those charged with violating rules of the manual will be treated according to the facts in the case, regardless of how their friends feel about it."

Two vacancies in the rank of Sergeant were created yesterday by the reduction of one man to the rank of patrolman and the dismissal of another Sergeant, and before 10 a. m.
today the Police Commissioners had answered many telephone calls from friends "boosting" various patrolmen for the vacancies.

INJURIES OF ARTIST SEVERE

A. H. Harrison's Ankles Broken in Hotel Fire at Richmond, Va.

A. H. Harrison, 57 years old, one of those seriously injured when fire destroyed the Lexington Hotel at Richmond, Va., early Tuesday morning, is a St. Louis silhouette artist and the son of Mrs. A. C. Harrison of 1394 Temple place. His ankles were broken and he was severely cut about the head. He jumped from a window of his room on the fourth floor of the hotel across an 11-foot alley to the roof of a building in the rear of the hotel and then jumped into a net held by firemen.

He formerly was employed in the advertising department of the old St. Louis Chronicle, and about 20 years ago took up the work of sketching silhouettes in department stores. He was in St. Louis about six weeks ago and informed friends that he was going to tour the South.
He lost virtually all his effects in the fire, including $125 in money and clothing valued at $700.

All Fat People Should Know This

Fat people owe a debt of gratitude to the author of the now famous Marmola Prescription, and are still more indebted for the reduction of this harmless, effective obesity remedy to tablet form.
Marmola Prescription Tablets can be obtained at all drug stores the world over at the reasonable price of one dollar for a case, or you can secure them direct on receipt of price from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward av., Detroit, Mich. This now leaves no excuse for dangling or violent exercise for the reduction of the overfat body to normal.

CARDINALS FROM U. S. AND CANADA ARRIVE IN ROME

Dougherty and Begin, Who Missed Election of Pope, to Attend the Coronation on Sunday.

COLD WAVE CHANGES PLAN FOR CEREMONY

Pius XI to Receive Triple Crown in Chapel of the Holy Sacrament, Without Ceremony in Facade.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Feb. 9.—Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia and Cardinal Begin of Quebec reached Rome today.

They will attend the coronation of Pope Pius XI next Sunday.

The cold wave, the severest in years, accompanied by snow, has forced a modification of the coronation ceremonies Sunday, when the new Pope will receive the triple crown. It will necessitate the passing of the pontiff into the basilica without the customary ceremonial of the facade before the huge bronze door, when Cardinal Merry Del Val, as arch-priest of St. Peter's, makes formal obeisance to the Pope. Thousands will thus be prevented from seeing the Pope passing in procession.

Ceremony in Chapel.
Instead, his holiness will enter immediately into the Chapel of the Holy Sacrament, where the late Pope Benedict lay in state. There Cardinal Merry Del Val will render homage to the pontiff, who will descend from the papal chair, borne on the shoulders of the red-cloaked ushers.

The Pope personally ordered this modification because of the serious consequences of cold which might follow if the pontifical procession were held in the open facade. It was announced in some quarters that His Holiness, after being crowned, intended to appear in the facade of St. Peter's wearing the tiara, the symbol of pontifical sovereignty, and bestow the benediction on those unable to gain admission, but this is authoritatively denied by the Vatican. The personal effects of the Pope have been taken to the apartment occupied by him during the conclave. He is still residing there, before establishing his official residence on the second floor of the Vatican.

His private apartment, located on the third floor, will be occupied as soon as it can be placed in order. The bedroom of the pontiff is at present located in the throne room. His brother, sister and nephew left Milan last night and are expected to reach here Thursday, so that they will be present at the coronation.

Pope Receives Cardinals.
His Holiness received several members of the Sacred College yesterday and also a number of diplomatic representatives. There is a crowd constantly within the Vatican, all seeking tickets for the coronation; long lines wait for hours at the major dome's office in order to submit their requests.

The great learning of Pius XI is constantly commented on by the prelates. Monsignor Tolomei, now dead, who was one of his precipitators, is recalled in the Vatican as having said: "Achille Ratti was an extraordinary scholar; he was an example and stimulus to all. I myself, was forced to intensify my study in order to present myself prepared before such a profound student."

Further details of the proceedings in the conclave show that the first ballots were divided between two contending factions, respectively, under Cardinal Gasparri and Cardinal Merry Del Val. The support of the former group was divided in the initial voting on Gasparri and Maffi, and the support of the latter group on Merry Del Val and La Scola. Cardinal Gasparri, on Sunday, realized that there was a deadlock, urging his supporters and those of Gasparri to turn their support to Cardinal Ratti. On Monday's ballot, Cardinal Ratti received the necessary two-thirds.

In addition to appointing Cardinal Gasparri as Papal Secretary of State and Mgr. Pizzardi as Subsecretary, Pope Pius XI has retained the late Pontiff's master of the household, Mgr. Casali-Dominici. Mgr. Testoni, Pius XI's private chaplain, also remains, while, as secret camerieri, Mgrs. Mignone, Mila, Callari and Leopardi, at the last pontificate, will continue the same functions.

Flashlight Route Robbers.
Mike Binder, a Maplewood grocer, routed two highwaymen with an electric flashlight when an attempt was made to rob him near his home, 3425 Locust road, Maplewood, last night. When ordered to throw up his hands, he drew the flashlight from his pocket and momentarily blinded the men. One of them hit him on the head with something; then they ran away. Binder said he had $75 in his pockets.

SEEKS SEPARATE MAINTENANCE

Wife of Lawyer Sues for Allowance of $400 a Month.
Mrs. Gloria Long Lindsay today filed a separate maintenance suit against Henry Thomas Lindsay, a lawyer with offices in the Boatmen's Bank Building. She asks for a support allowance of $400 a month.

The petition alleges the Lindsays were married in Indianapolis July 16, 1915, and separated Jan. 11 last. When asked for a statement Lindsay said he had nothing to say about the suit. His wife is employed in a downtown store.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD FROM GAS BELIEVED TO HAVE FAINTED

Mrs. Elizabeth Weinand, 74. Discovered Near Overturned Chair—Husband Stain 24 Years Ago.

Mrs. Elizabeth Weinand, 74 years old, a widow who lived alone at 4325A Linton street, was found dead from asphyxiation on the kitchen floor of her home at 8:15 o'clock last night by policemen who broke into the house when neighbors informed them that she had not been seen about the place yesterday.

There was an overturned rocking chair near the body, indicating that Mrs. Weinand had fallen and on the gas stove was a pot of cabbage near an open unlighted burner, from which gas was seeping.
Mrs. Otto Riecher, 2014 North Market street, a daughter, said her mother had long suffered from rheumatism and was subject to fainting spells, and advanced the theory that she was preparing supper and had fainted after turning on the gas.
Mrs. Weinand owned the flat in which she lived. She was the widow of Jacob Weinand, who was murdered by burglars 24 years ago.

ULSTER BORDER SOLIDLY POICED AFTER KIDNAPINGS

Number Captured by Republican Army Bands Estimated at From 60 to 200; Several Reported Freed.

LONDON ACTS TO CORRECT SITUATION

Demand Made on Provisional Government of Free State to Move for Release of Kidnaped Men.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The Ulster border is virtually a continuous police line today, following the raids yesterday in which many Unionists were kidnaped. From Portadown, County Armagh, to Belleek, on the Fermanagh-Donegal border, forces of "specials" are on guard as well as heavy contingents of the regular constabulary. It is admitted that 5000 men engaged in patrolling the line. Among those kidnaped is the Rev. Mr. J. Donnelly.

Maj. Miles of South Donegal, one of the persons kidnaped, returned to his home today. Others from the same area are reported to have been released.

Those who were kidnaped in Sligo by bands of young men in motor cars, a Ulster correspondent reports, included Alderman Kerr, a popular Unionist member of the corporation; George Lewis, a merchant; R. Dodd and Kristie Bell, members of commercial firms, all of whom were removed to an unknown destination. The houses of others were visited, but the occupants were away. The correspondents add it is supposed that the raid was in reprisal for the failure of the Ulster authorities to release the Londoner prisoners.

High Tension Prevails.
The roads leading southward from Belfast today present scenes of activity, motor trucks and armored cars bearing so-called "A" and "B" specials. Accompanying them are other trucks with stores and ammunition. High tension prevails at all points. Strangers traveling through the six counties are subject to the closest scrutiny. No communication has been possible with Enniskillen today.

Col. Wickham, commanding the Ulster specials, has received a communication from Dublin Castle, stating that the provisional government is sending special officers to investigate the kidnappings.

Ulster Reported to Be "Ablaze With Resentment."

LONDON, Feb. 9.—All the Ulster Unionists kidnaped in yesterday's raids, with the exception of those taken in Sligo, and a few others, are still held today, according to latest reports from Ireland. Their number is variously reported, the highest estimate being nearly 200, although most accounts put the figure considerably lower.

The Morning Post's Belfast correspondent, who reports from the Ulster point of view, says "over 60" are held. He describes Northern Ireland as "seething with excitement" and the raids as "the latest in a series of outrages with indignation and resentment."

He reports the raids as having been attended by many fights and "innumerable ambushes of the police."

Sanguinary encounters occurred at and about Newton Butler, according to the correspondent, who adds: "The Government are sending specials (constables) and Irish Republican army members are taking place at many points along the border of Fermanagh and Monaghan," where a score of specials were captured under threats of shooting of the raiders. "His list of wounded is a long one, but he gives no total."

The London morning newspapers, including those most friendly to Irish Nationalists, severely condemn the kidnappings, which the writers fear will prevent the pacification of Ireland and shatter the hopes based on the Anglo-Irish treaty.

The action of the Imperial Government, in demanding that the provisional Government of South Ireland take prompt measures for the release of the captured men and prevention of new outrages, is commended by the Times.

Use of Troops Authorized.
Following the wholesale and organized kidnaping of South Irish prominent Unionists yesterday morning, the victims, including many special constables, the capture of a score of raiders revealed that they were attached to the Irish Republican army.

The Northern Government appealed to the Imperial Government, which authorized the British Government to employ British troops for guarding the boundaries, at the same time sending a message to Michael Collins, the Provisional President, demanding that proper measures be initiated for the release of the cap-

WORK STOPPED ON 14 NEW FIRST-CLASS WARSHIPS

Order Suspending Construction, Issued by Denby at President's Direction, Expected to Effect Great Saving.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Construction work on 14 capital ships was suspended yesterday by order of Secretary Denby, under direction of President Harding. The step was taken in anticipation of ratification of the naval limitation treaty which resulted from the Washington conference, and under which only three of the vessels involved will be completed as war craft. The others will be scrapped or converted to merchant ships under the treaty provisions.

Secretary Denby acted after Assistant Secretary Roosevelt had discussed with President Harding the terms of the treaty affecting the new ships. Harding approved the suggestion that work be brought to a standstill immediately on the eight superdreadnoughts and six battle cruisers, pending final action on the treaty. In round figures, the building operations thus halted have cost the Government approximately $5,000,000 a month.

Orders also have been issued by the Secretary for the suspension of all ordnance work designed for the vessels affected by the naval limitation treaty signed at the Washington conference. The effect of the orders, it was said at the department, will be to lay off temporarily those employees who have been engaged on such work.

Contracts to Be Cancelled.
Following ratification of the treaty, contracts for the new ships will be cancelled. The ultimate cost to the Government of this cancellation cannot be determined in advance, but a considerable saving will be made through yesterday's action. Only one capital ship under construction was exempted from yesterday's suspension order. She is the Colorado, more than 90 per cent complete, and to be retained in the permanent fleet.

Ships Affected by Order.
The first-class battleships on which work was ordered stopped are: The Washington, at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation; the West Virginia, Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.; the South Dakota, New York navy yard; the Indiana, New York navy yard; the Montana, Mare Island navy yard; the North Carolina, Norfolk navy yard; the Iowa, Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.; and the Massachusetts, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Fall River, Mass.

Work also was ordered suspended on the following battle cruisers: Lexington, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation; Constellation, Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.; Saratoga, New York Shipbuilding Corporation; Ranger, Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.; and the Constitution and United States, Philadelphia navy yard.

Hughes on Conference.
Belief that the results achieved

tured men and prevention of a repetition of the outrages.

Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary for the Colonies, announced in Parliament at night that a response had been received from Collins, explaining to latest reports from Ireland. Their number is variously reported, the highest estimate being nearly 200, although most accounts put the figure considerably lower.

STATE BUILT 446 MILES OF HIGHWAY DURING LAST YEAR

Expenditure Was $6,806,783, but Missouri Spent Only $194,259; Balance Federal and County Aid.

PROJECTS BREAK FORMER RECORDS

Report of Highway Engineer Outlines Extensive Plans for Road Building During 1922.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 9.—The year 1921 was a banner year for Missouri in road building, according to information obtained from the State Highway Department here. The State constructed a total of 446 miles of highway during the past year at a cost of $6,806,783, according to the annual summary of highway construction compiled and released by Highway Engineer Alex W. Graham.

In addition to breaking all former records for highway construction, the State has put under contract approximately 150 projects involving a total of 910 miles of highway. The cost of these projects when completed will be $12,245,311. Nearly 150 other road projects are at various stages of preparation for contract letting at the present time.

588 Miles Begun.
Projects on which work was begun last year and on which 446 miles were completed included a total of 588 miles of highway, the summary says. An examination of the distribution as to types of highways completed last year shows that the larger portion of the construction was of graded earth type, followed closely by water and clay-bound gravel and macadam. Of the first type, 195.63 miles were completed and of the second, 190.67 miles. The type distribution of the remainder follows: Cement concrete, 43.2 miles; asphalt concrete, 6.15 miles; bituminous macadam, 2.68 miles, and vitrified brick, 2.89 miles.

Although including but a small portion of the total mileage constructed during the past year, cement concrete highways reached the largest portion of the expenditures. On this type of highway, $2,544,666.87 was expended. The expenditures on the remainder of the construction follow: Graded earth, $1,264,328.45; water and clay-bound gravel and macadam, $1,922,458.17; asphalt concrete, $1,255,556; bituminous macadam, $210,412.92; vitrified brick, $157,613.33. Four bridges were constructed during the year at a cost of $286,647.53.

Cost to State Small.
The State furnished the smaller part of the funds for the construction of the highways during the past year, the report shows. Of the $6,806,783 expended, the Federal Government provided $2,292,668.06, and the State Government but $194,259.77. The remainder of the funds were supplied by the various counties in which the construction work was done and the special road districts.

The bulk of the Federal aid funds was expended on higher type roads, only $263,199 having been expended on graded earth work. Cost of construction of the various types of highways during the past year ranged from an average of $164 a mile for graded earth, to $47,249 for vitrified brick. The average cost for the special road districts was $11,892, cement concrete, $35,524, and bituminous macadam, $21,908.

Indications are that the present year will see even greater activity in highway construction in the State under the new road program, according to highway officials. The Highway Commission is at the present time completing the construction work under the Morgan-McCullough road law and in addition to approximately $1,500,000 available for construction from this source, the commission has the first installment of $10,000,000 under the $40,000,000 road law.

"SOL" SUGGESTED AS NAME FOR PROPOSED THIRTEENTH MONTH

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The conference on calendar reform of the American Library Association, which met here yesterday, adopted a resolution urging the United States and other nations to adopt a proposal advanced by M. B. Cotsworth of Vancouver, B. C., for the insertion of the year into 13 months of 28 days each, with New Year's day set aside annually as an independent holiday. A similar holiday would be set aside every fourth year, under this plan, as "leap year day," and the extra month would be named "Sol," since in that period the solstice would occur in both hemispheres.

Cotsworth's plan is said to have been endorsed by the Royal Society of Canada and the Canadian Government, and a number of international organizations of commerce and other organizations.

FORD ENGINEER WILL TESTIFY IN SHOALS HEARING

General Tells Committee Government Is "Morally Obligated" to Give Power Company Chance.

WEEKS DOUBTS PLAN'S BENEFIT

War Secretary Declares Fertilizer Production Would Not Necessarily Be Increased.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—An announcement by Chairman Kahn of the House Military Committee that W. B. Mayo, chief engineer for Henry Ford, would testify Monday, opened the second day's investigation by Congress of Ford's offer for purchase and lease of the nitrate and power property at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

A telegram received by Kahn from E. G. Leibold, secretary to Ford, said: "In view of the fact that Mr. Ford finds it impossible to come to Washington, we are asking J. W. Worthington to call on you and to be of such service as is possible."

The chairman said Worthington had visited him and had said he and Mayo would appear Monday. The committee then called on Major-General Williams, Chief of Army Ordnance. He recited in detail the reasons for construction of the nitrate plants, explained the processes of nitrate manufacture and produced figures giving the cost to the Government of the work accomplished to date.

Moral Obligation Implicated.
Referring to the Warrier plant and substation, the General declared there was in his opinion a "moral obligation" on the part of the Government to give the Alabama Power Co. a right to purchase those properties before they were disposed of to other private interests.

"Lawyers contend there is no legal obligation," he said, "but there is a moral obligation to give the company such privileges. It came to the assistance of the Government in time of emergency, placed its facilities at our disposal when there was a real need of power, and by a contract with the Government was given a right to purchase the property at a price to be determined by a board of arbitrators. In the event they were to be sold after the war, 'The estimated scrap value of the plants, based on our experience of other large properties we have salvaged in the past, is $1,500,000. If a part is made operative and the remainder salvaged they would be worth $16,722,000."

Representative McKenzle of Illinois pointed out that the Alabama Power Co. had constructed the Warrier plant and transmission line on a cost-plus basis and on money supplied exclusively by the United States.

"Under these circumstances," he asked, "do you think there is a moral obligation to give the company an option?"

Gen. Williams was asked by Representative Keams of Ohio if it was not a fact that the Air Nitrates Corporation was controlled by 10 men and that the Government had already made $2,000,000 and had claims still pending against the Government.

"I know nothing about their profits," Gen. Williams replied. "He was of the opinion that the Warrier power plant could be salvaged without affecting the operation of nitrate plant No. 2 and that the salvage value would be about $2,000,000, or three-fifths of what Ford offered for all the plants."

The session revolved yesterday principally about the clauses relating to manufacture of fertilizers for the nation's agricultural needs. Secretary Weeks of the War Department, appearing as the first witness, repeatedly declared his doubt as to whether fertilizers could be manufactured cheaply at Muscle Shoals and expressed his belief that amendments to safeguard better the Government's interest in the nitrate plants were already made should be incorporated in the offer as it was drafted.

To alter existing Government policies regarding the lease of real estate or other properties and permit a 100-year lease of the water power machinery and dams in Alabama, the Secretary asserted repeatedly, would be an unjust act and should not be permitted. He advocated a reduction in the time clause from 100 years to 50, in the event Congress should decide to accept the offer.

Another often reiterated suggestion involving a change in present language of the offer, the Secretary

Here Is the True Story of Abraham Lincoln's Early Life

Document, Published Many Times, in Possession of Family of Illinois Man Who Was One of President's Friends.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 9.—Many orators in the United States will speak largely and eloquently next Sunday of Abraham Lincoln, that day being the 131st anniversary of his birth. They will tell just what kind of a boyhood he had, and that he was the dominant, molding influence, and that his life could be observed all through his career. The highest authority on this same boyhood is founded in a faded yellow manuscript in the possession of the Fell family of this city, copies of which appear in several works on the life of Lincoln. Despite the fact that this sketch has been printed on numerous occasions, it is still referred to on Lincoln's birthday. Jesse W. Fell was one of Lincoln's closest friends.

The sketch was written in 1858, at the request of Fell, who was traveling about the country conducting a campaign in favor of Lincoln's candidacy for the presidency. The Douglas-Lincoln debates had aroused such great interest in Lincoln that he asked Lincoln to give him a sketch of his early life to satisfy the public's curiosity.

After repeated solicitations, Lincoln turned over to Fell the following manuscript: "I was born Feb. 12, 1809, in Hardin County, Ky. My parents were born in Virginia of undistinguished families, second families, perhaps I should say. My mother, who died in my tenth year, was of a family of the name of Hanks. My father was but six years of age when his father died, and he grew up literally without education. He removed from Kentucky to what is now Spencer County, Ind., in my eighth year."

"We reached our new home about the time the State came into the Union. It was a wild region, with many bears and other wild animals still in the woods. There I grew up. There were some schools, so called, but no qualification was ever required of a teacher beyond reading, writing and arithmetic to the rule of three. If a straggler, supposed to pointed out, would require a fixed capitalization for the operation of the company Ford is to create. The Secretary said no provision existed in the offer guaranteeing a capitalization which the Government might recover in whole or in part, in the event the contract was violated. A provision of some sort was advisable, he said, which would permit the Government to impose through legal means a penalty or forfeiture should the company fail to carry out the terms of the offer.

Providing for Future.
"Anything might happen in the next 100 years," he said. "While I have not the slightest doubt as to the solvency of Ford, nor of his intentions to execute the agreement in good faith, neither he nor I will be here during the life of the contract. In considering this question we are providing for the future generations."

Regarding the manufacture of fertilizer and their cheap delivery to the farmers of the country, Weeks said there was no reasonable certainty in his mind that that was possible.

Asked what the annual consumption of fertilizer was, the Secretary said it was approximately 75,000,000 tons and the Muscle Shoals plants could only produce at a maximum 200,000 tons.

That amount, he asserted, would not be in his opinion affect the existing market. The Secretary previously had told the committee that Ford had declined to guarantee fertilizer production over a given number of years and had informed him in conversations that he would not manufacture the commodity at a loss.

Although pressed repeatedly by several committee members, the Secretary did not express an opinion as to whether the offer should be accepted or rejected by Congress. At one point he was asked whether the properties should be salvaged or Ford's offer accepted, but he replied only that the Government would not salvage the project in any event and repeated his intention to complete the Wilson dam if the offer was rejected. He said the dam could be completed without taking a dollar from the Treasury by a bond issue, based on commercial value of the project as a water power development.

Ford Asked to Appear.
Chairman Kahn announced that he had telegraphed Ford twice requesting him to come personally before the committee or send representatives to answer questions for him. In the second message Kahn said he requested the Detroit manufacturer to appear between the 9th and 11th, but said later that next Monday would be satisfactory.

Some concern was evident on the part of committee members as to whether the offer would be withdrawn from the body and referred by the House to the Agricultural Committee. An oral fight on the floor was expected either today or tomorrow, it was said. Meanwhile the committee members prepared to defend their jurisdiction in the case.

PRESIDENT SENDS GEN. RUSSELL TO REPORT ON HAITI

Brigadier-General Commanded Marines on Island Until Called to Washington Recently for Conference.

STATE DEPARTMENT SILENT AS TO TITLE

Haitian Witness Protested Against Appointment of High Commissioner Recommended by Senate Inquiry Body.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Brigadier-General John H. Russell, a Marine Corps officer, reported of long experience, will leave in a few days for Haiti, where he will act as the personal representative of the President to clear up the situation involving American occupation, which has been the basis for many complaints by natives and others and for several investigations. State Department officials would not say whether the officer would not have the title and post of American High Commissioner to Haiti, creation of which should have been recommended by the special Senate committee investigating conditions in Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

Dr. Pierre Hudicourt, of Port au Prince, a native Haitian, testifying before the Senate committee, however, said he had been informed that a "Brigadier-General" was to be appointed High Commissioner.

Protest Against Appointment.
Dr. Hudicourt protested against the appointment of a high commissioner, especially a military man, declaring such action by the United States would amount to the establishment of a protectorate over the island Republic. The Haitian people, he said, would not recognize as legal or right any action by the American Government.

Gen. Russell was said by Marine Corps officers to be qualified especially for the task of dealing with problems surrounding the American occupation of Haiti, because of having through his administration of military affairs there won the confidence of a large proportion of the natives. He served as commander of the marine forces in the island from November, 1917, to December, 1919, until ordered to Washington for a conference a month ago. Because of his work toward the restoration of order in the Republic, he was awarded the Legion of Honor by President D'Artigue.

In Command at Pekin.
Previously to his service in Haiti, Gen. Russell commanded the marine detachment at Pekin, served with the marines in Guam, Honolulu and Panama and participated in the American landing at Vera Cruz.

Dr. Hudicourt, in appearing before the committee, also protested against the floating by American bankers with the approval of the American Government, of a loan of $14,000,000, which he declared had been suggested. Repudiation of any loan floated without the consent of the Haitian people will follow the "restoration of independence" of that country, Dr. Hudicourt asserted.

The witness described President D'Artigue as the "rubber stamp" of the military occupational forces and said that when orders for the withdrawal of these forces were given the President also would withdraw from the country.

Request was submitted to the committee by Capt. Ernest Augustus for the Union Patriotique of Haiti, the Haiti-Santo Domingo Independence Society and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to have former Secretaries Colby and Daniels summoned before the committee to testify on various features of the American occupation.

Chairman McCormick announced the request would be taken under consideration.

RUSSIA RELIEF BODY FORMED
Funds to Be Sought Here to Purchase 8000 Barrels of Flour.

A local branch of the American Friends Service Committee, an organization for the relief of conditions in the famine-stricken areas of Russia, was organized yesterday afternoon at a meeting of business men held at the Merchants' Exchange.

The immediate purpose of the organization is to raise funds to purchase 8000 barrels of flour, the quota allotted to St. Louis. At the prevailing market prices it is estimated that $40,000 is needed for this purpose. The Merchants' Exchange announced that it would give 1000 barrels of flour, to be subscribed from among its members. Appointment of a man of this industry to arrange for committee to solicit the industry was the first step taken. The fur industry has pledged itself to raise $1500.

Improve the Opera No. 2.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"DOUBLE DASS." In a recent letter, takes to task the municipal opera management for its failure to engage Pavloska as prima donna for this season's cycle of midsummer operas.

There have always been and always will be differences of opinion, and where it exists a cause should be offered. Hence I shall take the ensuing committee's side and attempt to defend their judgment.

Pavloska has been tried out by the public of St. Louis and the municipal opera management and does not fill the requirements a repertoire prima donna must needs have.

That she is an artist in a particular line, with a voice, we do not deny; but did she not "fall down" the summer before last when the score of "Robin Hood" had to be sung?

Pavloska is not a dancer, neither is she a quick study, both of which are essential for stock work.

However, you are to be congratulated for admitting Moulton and Sophie Brandt exceptions, but you display an ignorance when you fail to mention the committee's good judgment in re-engaging James Stevens and if you know or ever heard of a better baritone to meet the municipal opera requirements, tell us of him.

Of the three directors we have had—Jones, Sinclair and Bishop—Sinclair outclasses his predecessors and successor tenfold, and no greater tribute could be paid the man than to be selected, as he has been to produce an all-star revival of "The Chocolate Soldier" last year in Gotham by a New York manager.

Show me a director who caters to the "star" or the management in producing a show and I'll brand him a failure. Sinclair isn't an angel, but he's a director and he gets results, and "kowitz" to no one.

Regarding musical directors, they have all failed thus far, but we're not going to show inconsistency when in one breath he suggests Parsons for the job with men like Fischer and Poepping in the pit, and in another writes that he "fails to see the slight improvement by the selection this year."

He didn't have to remind us that we needed an operatic school. We knew it and we're not complete until we have a dancing instructor to teach those that have voices but awkward feet and stage presence how to "get around" once they have landed on a stage.

In time we will have a "regular" outfit in Forest Park, but we're not going to improve the standard of performance by engaging people who may be all right in type parts, but all wrong for repertoire.

Open the School Gymnasiums.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

With much interest and hope have I looked forward to an answer in your columns to a letter which appeared some time ago signed "Several Office Men."

This letter was a plea for opening to the public the gymnasiums of the public schools. This indoor sport for winter months is as necessary and beneficial as the swimming pool in summer. "Opening the gymnasiums would cause heavier taxes" was the objection made by several people. Regarding this—the heat can be turned off as usual and the buildings would still be warm enough at 7 o'clock for a couple of hours of exercising—I am sure there would be volunteer instructors, as there are volunteer life-savers at the pools, and the only additional expense would be light, which expense could be shared by those in the community desiring to share in the joy afforded by the opening of gymnasiums.

To any and all having influence in this field, won't you please put your shoulders to the wheel and assist in accomplishing this great need? O. N.

Our Men's Wages.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WONDER IF H. C. L. was ever a street car man?

Does he realize that the majority of car men are out of their warm beds at 4 a. m.? They serve on the extra board from two to five years and longer.

I have known instances where they were required to reserve 13 hours and then work eight hours, making 21 hours out of 24 hours on actual duty. Their salary is not to be compared with the suffering tradesmen. The building tradesmen are receiving just about double what the car men are, with five and a half days' work a week, and the majority of the car men are required to work seven days a week and without holidays.

As to a 7c fare being a hardship on the many unemployed, what is not a hardship for people not employed? J. H. LAVENDER.

PRESIDENT OR BELL BOY?

The administration has found an excuse for not participating in the Genoa economic conference. It is the rider to the urgent deficiency bill of 1913, which provides that "Hereafter the executive shall not extend or accept any invitation to participate in any international conference or like event without first having specified authority of law to do so."

It is urged by those who want the United States to participate in the Genoa conference that Congress has no constitutional right or power to interfere with the President's conduct of foreign relations, which, under the Constitution, are wholly within his power and prerogative. This is true. With the exception of the advice and consent of the Senate in the matter of treaties the Constitution confers complete power over foreign relations upon the President.

The effort of Congress to control the President's conduct in relation to foreign affairs is a violation of the Constitution and an invasion of the President's rights and powers.

On the other hand, Congress controls the purse, and whoever holds the purse holds the power. Congress can strip the President of money with which to receive or send delegates and strip him of his Cabinet and his working force. Moreover, the Senate can withhold assent to treaties and thus make our participation in conferences and agreements foolish and futile.

What does Congress care for the Constitution when it stands in the way of its greed for power? It is rapidly stripping the states of all their reserved rights and powers and why should it not strip the President of his constitutional rights and powers and thus take over the whole government? We recently quoted Governor Morris on the insatiable greed of the legislative lion for power, which no Constitution will restrain.

If the President yields Congress will have won the battle for supremacy and the destruction of the Constitution without a struggle. He will be the bellboy of Congress.

If he fights for his rights, as he should, he will win in the end. He will be backed by a power greater than he or Congress—the power of the people. Public opinion is the supreme power in this country. It can overcome Presidents and Congressmen through the ballot. The President has only to expose the congressional conspiracy to seize all the power of government and appeal to the people for support. He will find himself armed with a weapon which Congress will not and cannot resist.

We believe that public opinion will oppose and defeat the congressional conspiracy to strip the President of his office. We believe that public opinion favors the participation of the United States in conference and co-operation to rehabilitate Europe and revive prosperity. Has President Harding the courage to assume leadership and defend his own and the people's constitutional rights?

WHY THE BANKERS?

Relative to the debt-refunding bill Senator Spencer has canvassed the bankers of Missouri for their advice on what should be the policy of the United States toward the allied war debt. The bankers were asked whether they favored cancellation of the debt, remission of the interest, high or low interest rates, immediate or long-time payment of the principal and congressional approval prior to making any final arrangement.

Why ask the bankers? These are all questions of general policy, in which the banker is no more qualified to speak than the man on the street. Do we want the payment of funds into the Treasury of the United States? Of course we do. It doesn't take a banker to answer that. There are other taxpayers than the bankers, and others entitled to a voice in governmental policy.

The question, however, is much broader than that of whether we want some $10,000,000,000 paid us or whether we wish to make a gift of it by failing to demand payment. On this issue hinges a profound problem of international equity and of economic and political equality involving the prestige of the nation and even our future peace.

If the war against German imperialism was our war—and we spent some $20,000,000,000 exclusive of our loans to the allies and 60,000 young men's lives in the conviction that it was—then the losses suffered by our allies in our cause before and after we entered the war make even a bill of $10,000,000,000 look insignificant.

By virtue of the power of money we have a great deal of banker rule in this country. Why, on a question of such broad, international import, might not the farmer, the shopkeeper and the wage earner have a voice?

AGUINALDO AT WASHINGTON.

In placing Aguinaldo at the head of the mission they are planning to send to Washington to urge their claims for independence the Filipinos are displaying fairly keen political perception.

Of all "little brown brothers" there is no other who would appeal so dramatically to American imagination as the man who made Fustun and himself famous. Since that remote day when they both swam the Bag-bag Aguinaldo has steadily progressed from captive to law-abiding citizen of consequence. Periodically his name has appeared in print, now as successful planter, now as legislator, pillar of respectability, exemplar of what may be accomplished under the conditions of American justice and opportunity. His confidence in the United States and our institutions is attested in the presence of his daughter at one of our universities.

That the Filipinos as a whole are incapable of self-government is an assertion with which we are all familiar; whether such assertion is wholly disinterested is doubtful. A governor-generalship is a royal post. In any event the capacity of the Filipinos for self-government is just as stoutly proclaimed by American observers as it is denied. Aguinaldo, if he is as shrewd as he is reputed, will make something of that point.

There are other points, too, which Aguinaldo and his fellow missionaries may properly and opportunely press. They derive from self-determination but their appetites are the product, not of a Wilson ideal, but a Harding accomplishment. Here in the United States we have been shedding copious senatorial tears over the plight of China, and especially the Shantung outrage, which Japan has contracted to rectify under the President's persuasion. But Japan is not the only concessionaire in China and China is not the only country in which Japan rules temporarily. Japan's occupancy of Korea may be as plausibly defended as our presence in the Philippines. If we question the motives of Japan's presence in Siberia why may not the same suspicion be entertained as regards our unfulfilled promises to the Filipinos?

The Philippine mission may pertinently suggest to the Government at Washington that it practice what it so fervently preaches.

CHEMISTRY AND PROHIBITION.

An Illinois chemist says he has extracted pure grain alcohol from illuminating gas, and by a comparatively simple process, too. The announcement will cause elation among the ungodly, but there will be anxiety and distress in those circles of starchy Americans who have lately become infatuated with the Constitution.

Such learned lawlessness as the Illinois professor has been guilty of is hard to cope with. Suppose a resourceful, daring enforcement officer did break into a chemical laboratory? Could he identify anything in the usual malodorous mess and confusion of such a place as contraband?

Manifestly an effective way must be found for dealing with curious chemists. It may be a question whether they should be shot at sunrise or not until high noon, but that is the only question about it, if we interpret Dr. Shupp's philosophy correctly.

Is not such a professor "owned bag and baggage by the liquor interests"? Is not such disloyalty as serious as that of the war-time traitors? Further, in tapping additional alcohol springs, are not those chemists declaring war upon the churches as well as the Constitution, and would not their execution, therefore, be a pious affair as well as a patriotic event?

The trouble with prohibition, it may be, is that the prohibitionists have been too lenient. They have smiled indulgently upon law violation when they should have frowned fiercely. That gentle policy must be abandoned for rack and screw and stake. Or they might toss the consumers and contrivers of prohibited drink to the lions, after the Babylonian fashion "or ever the golden days were gone."

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

SOCRATES: I suppose you attended the dinner to our retiring Collector of the Revenue, Glaucon?

GLAUCON: I tried to attend it, but the crowd was so great I couldn't get in.

SOCRATES: Did the crowd, do you suppose, indicate our gladness to get rid of a collector? GLAUCON: I wondered about that.

SOCRATES: I heard people say that was the probable cause. I did not take it seriously until I saw how reluctant the new collector was to take office.

THESYMACHUS: Perhaps after we vote the soldiers' bonus nobody will want to be collector.

SOCRATES: One never can tell. I see the collector who is just quitting sent out 40 deputies the other day to round up delinquents.

POLEMARCHUS: Have they been heard from since?

SOCRATES: You ask too many questions. POLEMARCHUS: Maybe it would interest you young men to know what I think occasioned the crush at the collector's dinner.

GLAUCON: It would, truly.

SOCRATES: Very well. As between collectors we have no feeling. They all collect, or at least try to collect, which from our point of view is the worst thing they could do.

THESYMACHUS: Absolutely.

SOCRATES: I have no evidence that one tries harder than another to collect, which would make a difference in our feelings toward them.

GLAUCON: Jove, no!

SOME SMILES FROM THE LIVES OF GREAT MEN

Mrs. Asquith Talks of Gladstone and Tennyson, and Tells a Good Scotch Story.

By Teased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—"We all have an interest in seeing the play from the point of view of the players," was the introduction to Mrs. Margot Asquith, who spoke last night at the Brooklyn Academy of Music on "People I Have Known." Laughter at several points and warm applause punctuated her remarks. There were no interruptions.

"Can you hear me?" were the first words spoken by the wife of the former British Prime Minister after she had acknowledged with a graceful curtsy the welcoming applause. A good chorus of "Yes" from the gallery answered her.

"I've known a great many people—so have you, probably," was the informal beginning. "Well, I might discuss my husband, Kitchener, Lord Tennyson—you'd like that?" (Applauding laughter.) Mrs. Asquith stepped easily back and forth in front of the gaudy backdrop.

A charmingly incoherent picture was next drawn of Gladstone and Asquith sitting on a bench, in a great debate, gravely deciding upon the ugliest man in the House of Commons. Asquith picked a large, husky man. "You're quite right," said Gladstone. "If you turn a magnifying glass on that man he becomes powerful, even striking, whereas, if one magnifies that little creature over there he becomes meaner and meaner."

"Great Angel Badly Dressed." Lord Spencer, described as "a great angel badly dressed," was the democracy of the British nobility strongly emerged. Lord Spencer, kept waiting while a small boy closed shop, and forced to pay spot cash for his purchase, afterward wrote a letter to the employer recommending a raise in wages for the boy.

"In favor of prohibition," said Mrs. Asquith and Gladstone, "although it seems to have worked unevenly between the rich and the poor. If you had been a Scotch woman like me you'd know the evil drink can do."

There followed three whisky stories told in broad Scotch, ending with: "Ah, know it's 1 o'clock—Ah, he strikes it repeatedly."

"Kitchener," she said, "was rather like your President Wilson. He could not work with other people. But in the matter of conscription in England he showed moral imagination of a high order. It could not have been put across a day sooner."

Gladstone and Tennyson. Gladstone, with whom Mrs. Asquith was taking a walk one day, was not eager to hazard an opinion as to the cause of his success. At last he admitted: "I think I've got thorough concentration, and then I was born with two temptations, both of which I've overcome. I hated to spend money and I had a bad temper. 'Oh, but you've not overcome that,' was the intrepid reply of his guest."

Of Tennyson the characteristic remark quoted was: "Many men have written as well as I, but none has written anything that sounds as well."

Reading from the manuscript of her new book, to be published here next summer, Mrs. Asquith gave the instructions issued by Kitchener to British soldiers in the field, to be kept in the active service kit.

SOTHERN INTERPRETS A SANE AND NOT MELANCHOLY HAMLET
Satisfying Stage Production Suffers Antidotes in the Closing Scene.

The Hamlet of E. H. Sothern, presented last night in the Shubert-Jefferson Theater, took from the lines every measure of melancholy bestowed upon that unhappy young man, but did not go beyond.

Sothern's Hamlet is undoubtedly a sane Hamlet, whether viewed in the light of his own character or Ophelia, the mocking scenes with Polonius or the terrified distraction of the queen-mother at his outpourings.

Albert H. is a satisfying Hamlet that Sothern makes live in the lines, spoken with dexterity and fervor and emphasizing ever the sense of filial consecration as explanation of thoughts and events.

Mrs. Marlowe's Ophelia was sweet with gentle tones and pity-stirring with its repressions.

As excellently through this engagement, the setting for Hamlet was excellent, particularly in the short scenes, where true ghastly attributes fell from the stage lights. In the grave scene, also, there happily was enough light to let the relief of the comedy permeate to rear seats.

Disappointment was inevitable at the elision by Frank Peters of the realistic lines of parental admonition given to Polonius in the third scene.

A dietnet anti-climax also fell like a blanket in the final few scenes when soldiers were sent to give Hamlet noble burial, had a full minute's difficulty in fashioning their shields into a bier. It dropped the audience down to thought of grave.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is to be a bill.

Writer to Read Own Verses. ### CABARET IS ARRANGED FOR VALENTINE TEA

League of Women Voters Will Give Play in Memory of Late Dr. Anna Shaw.

THE League of Women Voters will entertain with a valentine tea Feb. 14, at 2:30 o'clock, in the ballroom of Hotel Statler, in honor of the late Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, whose birthday falls on that date.

Each member has been asked to bring the name of a new member as a valentine to the league and drop it into a large red heart-shaped valentine box which has been presented for the purpose. The new members will attend the tea as guests. Each will be decorated with a red heart bearing her name and giving the league the opportunity of formally welcoming them into the organization.

The entertainment will be carried out in cabaret order. A stage will be erected at one end of the ballroom, and the guests will be seated at tables where refreshments will be served. Each table will have a hostess. The ushers will be dressed as valentines and their costumes will correspond to the decorations. By special permission of Granville Barker and through the courtesy of The Players' Guild, the league will present the play entitled, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," by Anatole France. Mrs. Herbert Cost, chairman of the League of Women Voters' Traveling Players, will assist in the direction.

The cast will include Blanchard O. McKee in the title role, Miss Gertrude Walters in the part of the dumb wife, and Miss Bertha Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thompson, David Thompson, Culver L. Hester, Dr. Jostes, Joseph A. Rouvroy and Daniel Bartlett.

Everett W. Jattison is chairman of the Production Committee. Mrs. Leslie Thompson is in charge of the entertainment and Mrs. W. V. Shell is chairman of the decorations and hostesses.

Miss Rose Muckerman of 4464 West Pine boulevard will entertain with a mixed bridge party this evening. There will be six tables.

William Evans Guy of 10 Portland place will be host at a tea tomorrow afternoon in honor of Mrs. Harry French Knight. The guests have been asked to call at 4:30, and those assisting will be Mrs. Clarence Gamble and Mrs. Henry Fenimore Cooper.

BOLSHEVISM FAILURE, COUNT TOLSTOY SAYS

Son of Noted Writer States Peasants Are Counteracting Doctrine by Non-Co-operation.

Count Ilya Tolstoy, son and biographer of the late Count Leo Tolstoy, famous Russian author and philosopher, addressed the students of Washington University this morning in Graham Memorial Chapel. In his address at the university, and in talking with reporters at Hotel Statler, he declared that the bolshevist rulers of Russia had failed equally in their attempts to establish communism in that country and in their effort to bring about world revolution.

"There is no such thing as communism in Russia today," he said. "The rule of bolshevism is the triumph of brute force. You cannot enforce true communism. It must be voluntary. There is one kind of communism, that preached by the great sages, who taught men to love one another and share their goods by giving. The other kind of communism is that of Marx, of Lenin and Trotsky, who preach hatred and envy, and whose method is to rob and despoil."

Count Tolstoy expressed approval of the work of the American Relief Administration, headed by Secretary Herbert Hoover, which is distributing to the Russian people the supplies sent, in the form of food remittances, from this country. St. Louis banks are receiving agents for these remittances. Count Tolstoy, who is now 55 years old, was a worker in the Russian Red Cross organization in war time, serving with the Russian army in the Carpathian Mountains.

He expressed regret at the absence of former Ambassador Francis, whom he had hoped to meet here, and who is in Florida. He was aided by Ambassador Francis in getting out of Russia, by the Siberian route, in 1918. He does not expect to return to Russia, while the present regime is in power, as he has criticized the bolshevist rulers freely. His brothers and sisters live in Russia, and some are in straitened circumstances. The family received nothing from the father's estate, Count Tolstoy said.

This is his second visit to St. Louis, as he spoke here about four years ago. He leaves for Kansas City tonight.

"Three hundred million people in India are following the chief essential of my father's doctrine," when they adopt the principle of non-co-operation. And now, in Russia, the peasantry is following the same doctrine."

The bolsheviki killed the peasants' incentive to work, who they robbed the peasants of the product of their labor, or paid them for it in worthless paper. Now the exactions from the peasantry have been reduced to a tax of 10 per cent, which takes the place of other taxation. But the peasants have abandoned the idea of producing beyond their own needs, and the bad crops of the past year have strengthened this tendency among them. Their non-co-operation is killing bolshevism, which was only atoned by military movements against it."

He expressed regret at the absence of former Ambassador Francis, whom he had hoped to meet here, and who is in Florida. He was aided by Ambassador Francis in getting out of Russia, by the Siberian route, in 1918. He does not expect to return to Russia, while the present regime is in power, as he has criticized the bolshevist rulers freely. His brothers and sisters live in Russia, and some are in straitened circumstances. The family received nothing from the father's estate, Count Tolstoy said.

This is his second visit to St. Louis, as he spoke here about four years ago. He leaves for Kansas City tonight.

"Three hundred million people in India are following the chief essential of my father's doctrine," when they adopt the principle of non-co-operation. And now, in Russia, the peasantry is following the same doctrine."

The bolsheviki killed the peasants' incentive to work, who they robbed the peasants of the product of their labor, or paid them for it in worthless paper. Now the exactions from the peasantry have been reduced to a tax of 10 per cent, which takes the place of other taxation. But the peasants have abandoned the idea of producing beyond their own needs, and the bad crops of the past year have strengthened this tendency among them. Their non-co-operation is killing bolshevism, which was only atoned by military movements against it."

Count Tolstoy expressed approval of the work of the American Relief Administration, headed by Secretary Herbert Hoover, which is distributing to the Russian people the supplies sent, in the form of food remittances, from this country. St. Louis banks are receiving agents for these remittances. Count Tolstoy, who is now 55 years old, was a worker in the Russian Red Cross organization in war time, serving with the Russian army in the Carpathian Mountains.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthosulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ-killing properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation. Menthosulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment of disfigurement. A little jar of Menthosulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

ALMOST FORGOTTEN PHRASES REVIVED ON WEST END FLAT

Sign, "For Rent—Newly Decorated," Startles Passengers on Ho-diamond Cars.

Passengers on the Hodiadmont street car line could scarcely believe their eyes yesterday when they looked at a flat building a short distance west of Union boulevard.

It was a two-story brick building with the usual complement of windows and chimneys and a front porch. In general design it was not greatly different from many flats in the West End and in North and South St. Louis.

Nobody was creating a disturbance on the front porch. No liquor was in progress. All was quiet and serene, and yet it was a subject for excited conversation. The explanation lay in a sign in one of the windows.

"For Rent. Newly decorated. Back door open."

The "For Rent" signs in itself was a novelty but to many tenants of other flats who saw them the two appended words, "newly decorated" looked too good to be true. They were like a phrase from a language long dead.

One explanation was that union painters and decorators recently accepted a wage cut and landlords are taking advantage of the reduction.

INCREASE IN POSTAGE OPPOSED

St. Louis Printers Say It Would Strangle Publishing Industry.
A protest in a resolution adopted at the last meeting of the St. Louis Typographical Union No. 8 against an increase in second-class postage rates, suggested recently by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, was sent yesterday to Mellon and to Senators Reed and Spencer and Congressmen Hawes, Newton and Dyer. "An increase now in postage upon newspapers and magazines would be a departure from the unvarying policy of this country since the adoption of the Constitution." It is stated in the letter. "It would be a tax on education, the most vicious tax conceivable. In strangling the publishing industry, the industry most beneficial to the citizens of this country, it would incidentally throw out of work thousands of men and women at a time when unemployment is already acute and we appeal to you to oppose the proposed increase."

DENIES HE KILLED BOY WHO REFUSED TO DRILL

Former Military Instructor in Texas Training School Declares Inmate Fell Dead.

By the Associated Press. GATESVILLE, Tex., Feb. 9.—H. G. Twyman, former military instructor at the State Juvenile Training School here, denied on the witness stand yesterday that he caused the death of "Dell" Thames, 15-year-old inmate. Twyman is charged with murder in connection with the boy's death last September, following an alleged punishment by Twyman.

The defendant was the last witness for the defense and was on the stand more than an hour.

After denying his guilt or that the punishment he is said to have given Thames contributed to his death, Twyman told of his connections with the boy from the day he arrived at the school until he died.

The inmate arrived on a Wednesday and died the following Sunday, Twyman testified. He said he whipped the boy Saturday morning and again Sunday morning, after the lad had repeatedly refused to drill.

He testified that Joe Thomas and Eddie Stokes, boy drill captains, brought Thames to him Sunday morning. When the captains released their hold of Thames, Twyman testified, Thames fell. Twyman said he caught the lad by the shoulders and then raised his head by placing one hand under his chin.

"When I did this, he fell from my hands," Twyman testified. "I knelt over and raised his head and arms."

He was dead then, I think. In fact, I believe he was dead when the two boys brought him to me."

With this statement, Mrs. T. M. Thames, mother of the boy, wept.

SUES FOR $12,647, ALLEGED OVERCHARGE ON WATER RATE

A suit to recover $12,647.05 alleged to be due as excess water rate charges was filed yesterday by the National Enameling and Stamping Co. against the city. There are seven counts in the suit, each covering a period of six months, dating from June 1, 1917, to Dec. 1, 1920, in which time the total water bill of the plaintiff was $32,936.12.

The petition sets forth that an ordinance gives a special rate to concerns using more than 12,000 cubic feet of water semiannually. In the period mentioned the company, it is alleged, used 45,915,400 cubic feet of water, but was not given full advantage of the sliding scale rate. Because of the rule that if water bills are not paid within five days from the time rendered the water may be shut off, the plaintiff was forced to pay the alleged excess charges, the petition states.

Nephew Confesses Killing Man. Special to the Post-Dispatch. BUFFALO, Mo., Feb. 9.—Phil Stone, charged with the murder of his uncle, Asa Berry, a farmer, confessed to authorities here yesterday that he committed the crime. Stone said he, Berry, three Garrison brothers and Hanford Bishop, Constable, hammer. He then dragged the body had been drinking; that all except he to the river and threw it into the and Berry left; that a quarrel followed; that Constable Bishop has been loved and he killed his uncle with a asked to resign.

News of the Business World

By Wire to the Post-Dispatch

WHEAT CROP HAS SUFFERED.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 2.—Severe loss has been sustained by farmers in this region through the lack of moisture since Jan. 1. The condition of the wheat crop has suffered materially, and it is estimated drought has ruined 5,000,000 acres of wheat in Kansas alone. In other lines, however, business is progressing satisfactorily. A building boom is forecast for spring and this forecast is supported by the large number of men attending the better home and building exposition being held by the Kansas City Real Estate Board this week.

Automobile dealers are looking forward to much increased business after the automobile show next week. There has been a steady business improvement in the mid-continent oil fields which has been aided by the increase of 1 cent a gallon in the price of gasoline. A war between bread dealers has brought back the 5-cent loaf to Kansas City. Country merchants are buying in small lots. Sales are brisk in dry goods, millinery and notions, but orders are conservative and most of them for near by delivery.

RETAILERS CLEANING HOUSE.
SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 2.—Retail merchants of the Northwest are cleaning house and in some cases the process is a painful one. For example, it is said some dealers have taken suits and overcoats which sold at $65, at the peak of the war boom, cut them to approximate cost, $40, and now are offering them at $39.75. The local consumer, merchants say, looks only to value when he spends his dollar.
Failures, however, have not been numerous in this territory. Where merchants have been financially embarrassed, bankruptcy courts have been eliminated by co-operation by the creditors for the purpose of saving and distributing the load.
Wholesale trade is active in dry goods. Ginghams are scarce and in good demand. One of the wholesale houses reports an increased demand for silks.
Heavy snows in the mountains of Western Washington and Oregon have cut down fir and cedar log production. The visible supply of logs in the water now is only about 100,000,000 feet, whereas the normal supply at this season is 250,000,000 feet.

CLEVELAND SLUMP PASSED.
CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 2.—Cleveland has recovered from the year-end slump in industrial lines which started last December. Marked improvement has been reported this month. Reports from 100 firms which normally employ at least 500 men each show an increase of 4543 workers over Jan. 1, or a gain of 7 per cent. Officials of the American Multigraph Co. report record sales and tremendously increased inquiries since Jan. 1.
"This indicates," said the president of the company, "that business men are looking for ways to stimulate business and that there is today business to be had if the price is right."
Operations of the Steel Products Co. have increased 50 per cent this month over January, according to officials of the concern, while January showed an equal increase over December. At Akron the Firestone rim plant is operating at capacity. The Trumbull Steel Co. is operating at 85 per cent of capacity.
The National Screw and Tack Co. and the D. Connelly Boiler Co. are taking back old employees and increasing production in response to improved volume of orders.

$500,000 TERMINAL PLANS.
ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 2.—Plans for a $500,000 terminal at Park Falls, Wis., are being prepared by the Milwaukee, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railroad. The project includes a round house, repair shops and accommodations for 200 cars. Building costs in the Northwest will be 41 per cent less than they were last year, according to architects and builders here.

21-STORY ADDITION.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

It is destroying civil liberty through creating a Federal army of spies and inquisitors; it has overwhelmed our courts with cases; it has filled our jails and hospitals; it has created a nationwide traffic in impure strong drink; it has brought graft and corruption in high places; it has made this a nation of hypocrites and brought all law into disrepute.

"Prohibition will work great injury to the cause of temperance. It is a species of intemperance within itself, for it goes beyond the bounds of reason in that it attempts to control a man's appetite by legislation and make a crime out of things that are not crimes. A prohibition law strikes a blow at the very principles on which our Government was founded."—Abraham Lincoln.

So convenient and effective for sore throat

With gargles or sprays it is impossible to keep a sore throat under anything like continuous treatment. With Formamint, it makes no difference where you are—at work, in crowded car, shop, theatre or church—you can dissolve one of these delicious, almost candy-like tablets in your mouth once an hour or so. An effective yet harmless antiseptic is released and, carried by the saliva, continuously bathes the entire lining of the mouth and throat, checks germ growth, and gives the sore, infected tissues chance to heal.

Formamint Tablets used when especially exposed to infection reduce your danger of catching sore throats, and even influenza, from others.

Children can—and should—use them freely, as defence against throat affections and influenza which spread so readily in congested school-rooms.

AUTOMOBILES.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 9.—Local automobile dealers declare high-priced cars are just as much in demand proportionately in this region as the low-priced automobiles.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 9.—Wholesale automobile accessory houses report that January was the best month they had known in a year with the exception of November, 1931.

STEEL.
LONDON, Feb. 9.—Recent reductions in prices in certain branches of the iron and steel trade have led to more inquiries and the situation has been improved to some extent by lower price of coke.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 9.—All the Brackenridge plants of the Allegheny and the West Penn Steel companies, except a plate mill, have resumed operations. The McKeesport Tin Plate Co. is operating 38 of its 44 hot mills and giving employment to 2700 men.

HIDES.
BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 9.—Trading in hides has showed some renewed activity here in the last few days, with prices practically unchanged.

OIL.
CITY, Pa., Feb. 9.—Two of the refineries here have resumed operations after being shut down since Christmas eve. A slight increase in demand for their products and a reduction in stocks resulted in the resumption.

EGGS.
NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Nearly 100,000 dozen eggs have been received here from China in the last few days. These eggs are sold chiefly to bakers and do not compete with fancy eggs from nearby parts. It takes five weeks for the voyage.

PRUNES.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—The prune market is uncertain, but shipments of the Prune Growers' Association continues, and leaders in the industry believe the stock is due to be entirely cleaned up.

MILLINERY.
FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 9.—Retail millinery establishments in the Southwest, most of which are equipped with new stocks, bought at new and low price levels, enjoyed a prosperous January and report a bright spring outlook.

VEGETABLES.
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—Temperatures have not fallen low enough to check vegetable shipments from this district. These are moving in increasing quantities. Demand is improving, but prices have not advanced.

GROCERIES.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—Reeves, Parrin & Co., wholesale grocers, in business here since 1828, will close out their Philadelphia house May 1 and confine activities to the western part of the state. Heavy overhead expenses here are assigned as the reason for the move.

Boy Scout Governor for Today.
By the Associated Press.
SALEM, Ore., Feb. 9.—The State of Oregon has a Boy Scout Governor today. Ben B. Olcott, Governor, yesterday took the Scout oath in an impressive outdoor ceremony as the opening phase of the Scout organization's twelfth anniversary.

BRIBERY OF RICKARD WITNESS IS CHARGED

Private Detective Held After Girl, 13, Says He Asked Her to Change Testimony.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Charged with bribing Nellie Gasko, 13, of Brooklyn, to withhold testimony against Tex Rickard, fight promoter, accused of assaulting three minor girls, Nathan Podd, a private detective, yesterday was remanded to the Tombs by Justice Wasevoge.

He will be arraigned on the charge, a felony, Friday afternoon. Bail was fixed at $10,000. The bribery charge was preferred by Richard J. Curran, an officer of the Children's Society, which has the Gasko girl in its custody, and was accompanied by the girl's affidavit as to its truth.

Podd was arrested yesterday on a farm near Wappinger Falls, N. Y., where officers of the Children's Society had traced the Gasko girl, who had been missing from her home since Jan. 27. The officials said Podd was fleeing with the girl. After telling Acting District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora that she had met Rickard nearly every day since last summer, the Gasko girl, according to the police, declared Podd's wife had induced her to meet the detective. Podd, the police declared, paid the girl an unspecified sum of money on agreement to change her testimony against the fight promoter.

Podd is then alleged to have taken the girl first to her home near Coney Island, and later to the Wappinger Falls farm. Detectives traced the child to her hiding place after Podd had paid a fine imposed on March Gasko, her father, for failing to send his daughter to school.

"Nellie Gasko has described in detail meetings with Rickard since she originally met him last summer in the swimming pool in Madison Square Garden," Pecora said last night. "She met him nearly every day, she says, in an office in the building. She was admitted to the garden and swimming pool free. Nellie knew Alice Ruck, the original complainant against Rickard."

DIAMOND RETURNED BY MAIL
Man Robbed Says He Reported It to Influential Friends.
A diamond stud valued at $500, stolen in a holdup from Edward L. Hoffmann of 8015 Ivory avenue, was returned through the mail yesterday. Hoffmann told the police he had lost $200 cash in the robbery, but he was very well satisfied with the return of the stud and said the police could discontinue further investigations as far as he was concerned.

Hoffmann was one of two passengers in a service car driven by Harry Kohn of 920 A North Fourteenth street, when Kohn's car was forced into the curb by three men riding in a Ford automobile near 6000 South Broadway Monday night. Kohn and the passengers were made to get out of the machine. Kohn was robbed of $28. The stud and money was taken from Hoffmann and he and the other passenger ran away while the men were searching Kohn. Hoffmann told the police he had some influential friends and he told them of having been robbed. His complaint, he said, he believed had resulted in the return of the diamond.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and other organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to bladder disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no had effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

Let's Hope That the Browns' Babe Ruth Day "Plum" Doesn't Turn Out to Be a Postponed Date

Hornby Asks for $25,000 a Year; $14,000 Increase

CLUB OFFER IS $15,000

President Breadon Must Submit Contract to Player Not Later Than Feb. 15.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Though Rogers Hornby and Sam Breadon decline to make any statement, denial or confirmation, as to the status of the negotiations between the National League's leading batsman of 1921 and the Cardinals as to the slugging contract for 1922, it has been learned authoritatively that a little matter of $10,000 stands between the two principals in their efforts to reach an agreement.

No contract has been sent out by the Cardinals to Hornby. League rules provide that the contract must be in the mails by Feb. 15. That means that by next Wednesday the Cardinals must have forwarded to the second-sacker their best offer. Subsequent developments will depend on Hornby. He is expected to report at the spring training camp, if he fails and falls subsequently to report for duty in time to open the season. When the Cardinals will come under the jurisdiction of the high commissioner of baseball, Judge Landis. It is up to the Cardinals to decide whether failure to report for spring training—if that should develop—constitutes grounds for penalizing the player.

Hornby said last night that he was one to be settled between himself and the ball club and that he did not care to make any statement.

Wants $10,000 a Year Increase. It was learned definitely, however, that he had demanded $25,000 a year for the coming season. The club, on equally good information, offered $15,000, and the conference, the only one the player and club president have had thus far on the question of 1922 contract, ended without any agreement having been reached.

Very little trouble has been experienced in the past in signing Hornby to a new contract. Even last year, when the Giants offered $20,000 for Hornby, thereby promising their readiness to pay him $25,000, the Cardinals' second-sacker came to terms with little discussion. He was paid $11,000 for the year. Stock was the real holdout of the year, and it is stated in authoritative circles that the fact that Stock received $12,000 after his great year in the Hornby camp. This year, along with the statement that Stock had signed for 1922, it was said that his salary had been increased.

One favorable feature of the situation is that the negotiations are being conducted in friendly spirit on both sides. Hornby says his treatment by the club in the past has been all that could have been expected, while President Breadon has only highly scented bouquets for Rogers' behavior in the matter. Hornby has been wintering in St. Louis attending to his insurance business. In both his business and baseball affairs he is acting under the advice of Bob Newman, the former high school and present M. A. A. athlete, with whom Hornby is associated in business.

LESLIE MANN TO ASSIST STIEHM AT INDIANA U.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 8.—Two more men have been added to the personnel of the Indiana University football coaching squad, Athletic Director E. I. Stiehm has announced. They are Leslie Mann, an outfielder for the St. Louis National League baseball club, and Kenneth W. Brewster, a graduate of the Springfield (Mass.) Y. M. C. A. College, who coached basketball and football at the St. Louis National League baseball club for two years and since 1914 has been connected with Rice Institute at Houston, Tex., in that capacity.

"Most Valuable Player" Trophy Is Revived by American League

Magnates to Give Annual Prize to Man Voted 'Most Valuable to His Club'—Plan Is a Revival of Chalmers Trophy Idea, Discontinued After Cobb-Lajoie Scandal Here 10 Years Ago.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—An emblem, the cost of which was placed at $1000, will be awarded to the American League player each season "who has been of the greatest value to his team on the basis of performance on the diamond and conduct off the field." This was decided at the annual spring meeting of the junior circuit magnates yesterday. It was about the only action of real interest.

This is a revival of the Chalmers trophy idea, which was discontinued some 10 years ago, as a result of an occurrence in St. Louis. The Chalmers award was given for the batting championship. It was in 1910, when Cobb and Lajoie were running neck and neck, that the snafu arose.

On the final day of the season the Cleveland club played a double-header in St. Louis and Lajoie made eight hits, seven of them bunts down the third base line. This brought about a roar and caused the release of Jack O'Connor as manager of the Browns and Harry Howell, a pitcher. Cobb won the championship, hitting .382 to .384. Both players were given autographs, which then was the prize, but thereafter it was discontinued.

This idea will be resumed this year, and President Ban Johnson, C. O. Ruppert of New York and Frank Navin of Detroit were named as a committee to select a suitable emblem.

Managers Not Eligible. It was announced that playing managers would not be eligible for the competition, because in their dual capacities they naturally contribute momentary success to their teams. This will bar Tris Speaker.

Title Pin Event To Open Tonight

Twenty-Four of Best Bowlers in Country Compete at Chicago—St. Louisan Entered.

Otto Stein Jr., St. Louis' only entrant in the World's Classic Bowling Tournament, which will be started at Chicago, tonight, will not bowl on opening night, according to the schedule announced. Stein is one of eight entrants who will not swing into action until the second day of the tournament. Stein departed for Chicago early in the week.

However, some good matches are booked. Jimmy Smith, champion regarded as the world's champion, is down to oppose Billy Ruch, one of the Chicago entrants. Mort Lindsey, the Stamford (Conn.) tenpinner, is down to tackle Doc Ehike of Milwaukee.

Each of the matches in the tournament will be for five games, and with each tenpinner bowling 23 matches this will call for a total of 115 games. The Petersen system of scoring will be used to decide the title winner.

The schedule for tonight follows: 7:30 o'clock—Jack Powell, Kenosha, Wis., vs. Tony Karlick, Chicago; Jimmy Smith, Milwaukee, vs. Billy Ruch, Chicago.

8:15 o'clock—Doc Ehike, Milwaukee, vs. Mort Lindsey, Stamford, Conn.; Joe Hradek, Chicago, vs. Frank Kafora, Chicago.

9 o'clock—Fred Thoma, Chicago, vs. Jimmy Blouin, Chicago; Chris Kaad, Chicago, vs. Tony Schwoegler, Madison, Wis.

9:45 o'clock—Harry Thomas, Pittsburg, vs. Phil Wolf, Chicago; Jack Kelly, Chicago, vs. Marion McDowell, Cleveland.

144 Chicago Teams Entered.

With more than 1100 quintets entered in the American Bowling Congress tournament, which is scheduled to start at Toledo, Feb. 27, Chicago furnished 144 quintets. Figuring that each five averaged $75 in entry fees, this means that the Windy City tenpinners furnished $10,800 toward the prize fund for the coming tourney.

Three Local Teams Compete.

Three St. Louis teams will compete in the national Craftman's tournament, which is scheduled to be bowled in Chicago, starting Feb. 11. The total entry for the tourney shows 265 five-man teams, 629 two-man and 1248 in singles. A total of $4050 will be given in prizes.

More Honors for Chicago.

Chicago bowlers landed more honors in the Interstate tourney, recently held at South Bend, Ind., capturing three of the four championships. The H. A. Arnolds won the five-man with 2998, Joe Hradek was the singles winner with 666 and Lou Levine captured the all-events with a total of 1449.

Gengler Is Bowling Well.

Count John Gengler, who is turning a comeback this season, has been successful in averages made in matches at New York mean while. He averaged 225 in defeating Phil Spinnella, 2250-2142, in a 10-game match, while he trimmed Glen Riddell, 4084-4065, in a 20-game contest, showing an average over 200. Against Riddell he was 119 pins behind at the end of the fifteenth game. In the last five he scored 225, 246, 245, 179 and 169.

Woman Gets Big Average.

Mrs. Emma Hill, rolling in a Detroit tournament, recently counted 198, 205, 233 and 181 for an average of 204.25, which is said to be a record for a woman bowler in the Michigan city.

Murchison Again Defeats Champion In Sprint Event

St. Louis Runner Takes Lead at Start and Is Never Headed in "McAlpine 300."

Murchison Has Won Six Races in Five Meets This Season

SINCE starting his indoor campaign, Loren Murchison, the St. Louis sprinter, running under the name of "The Flying Scot," has competed in five meets and has won six races. Murchison opened the season with the 1 A. C. meet Jan. 27, when he set a new world's record of 71-5 seconds for the 70-yard dash. He equaled the 60-yard mark in the same race. A. games at the meet Feb. 1.

His record for the season is 60 yards in 62-2 seconds, equalling record. Also won 60-yard dash in 64-5 seconds. Feb. 4—Boston A. A. games at Boston, won 40-yard dash in 44-5 seconds.

Feb. 6—Newark A. C. games at Newark, won 75-yard dash in 8 seconds.

Feb. 8—Samaritan games at St. Louis, won 300-yard dash in 23-5 seconds.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Loren Murchison, the St. Louis sprinter, who runs in the colors of the Illinois Athletic Club, gained new honors in his Eastern campaign when he defeated Champion Bernie Webers Jr. in the 300-yard dash, at the Samaritan games held here last night. It was his sixth victory in less than two weeks.

Webers, during the evening, previously had met defeat in the 100-yard dash, and in the 200-yard dash. Bob McAlister, the New York policeman, having taken him into camp in a hard contest.

In the 300-yard dash Murchison beat Webers in the first turn, even though he was forced to go on the outside of the track to do it. Once in front he held the lead all through. Webers made a bid in the stretch, but Murchison was too powerful and hung on.

Rivals to Meet Saturday. Webers, who is United States sprint champion in indoor events all the way from 60 to 300 yards, will meet Murchison again at two o'clock Saturday night at Buffalo.

The 60 and 300 yard championships. Murchison has beaten Webers three times this year, twice in sprints and once over the 300-yard route.

McAlister ran a great race from a slow start in leading Webers in the sprint last night. His time was exceptional, considering that it was done over the boards—10 seconds flat.

Murchison's victory was his third consecutive success in the "McAlpine 300" and gives him permanent possession of the cup.

Joe Ray, the Illinois star, failed to equal his top-mile record time, 9m. 11-5-5, made two weeks ago, doing the distance in 8m. 20-4-5. Ray captured the 3000-meter event in 8m. 42-4-5.

Hal Cutbill, Boston's "flying parson," easily captured the 1000-yard invitation event in 2m. 17s. Cutbill had entered the event on the understanding that Ray would also compete, but the Illinois star had changed his mind at the last minute, electing to attempt a new record for the two miles.

And tackle the boss for a raise.

PITCHERS. "Two Kinds of Pitchers in the West." Headline, Mgt. leagues will be kind—good, bad and indifferent.

Joe McGlinchy says that the heavy batting was due to the lack of pitching. He says that the use of pitching curves only to see Babe Ruth straighten them out?

Maybe the hurlers were leary of curves for fear of being charged with pitching crooked ball.

Some claim that Babe was the victim of curves in the w. s. Others say it was a case of nerves. Maybe it was a little of both.

THAT'S THE WAY. WHEN pitchers' curves get on the nerves. The atmosphere is pounded. And then by jeez instead of cheers.

I WONDER. Johnnie Dundee, at the age of 35 or thereabouts, is the junior lightweight champion. Wonder how old a guy has to be to become the senior lightweight champ?

ENGLAND IS EXPECTED TO ADOPT 36-HOLE SYSTEM FOR GOLF TOURNAMENTS

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Feb. 8.—Changes in the regulations governing both the English men's and women's amateur golf championships for the coming season appear probable. Requests from players of both sexes for extension of the golfing season have received considerable support and will be considered at coming meetings of the national organizations.

The American opposition to the English system of 18 holes play in amateur golf tournaments has been a long-standing one, and appears to have met with results. A petition heavily in favor of revising the conditions for the 1922 amateur championship is ready for presentation to the Championship Committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club.

BARNES AND HUTCHISON WON 10 OF 12 MATCHES

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 9.—Jim Barnes, American open golf champion, and Jack Hutchison, British open title holder, departed for Phoenix, Ariz., last night, following the cancellation of their two final matches. During their four weeks' stay in Southern California the champions played 12 matches, winning 10, and lost two, both of which they lost to Dr. Paul Hunter, California State amateur champion, and Eddie Loos, former California open title holder.

Browns Open in New York on Day Ruth's Ban Ends

American League Schedule, Approved Yesterday, Gives Follies Fine Date, May 20.

Unless Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, changes his mind and reinstates "Babe" Ruth, home-run champion, before May 20, the Browns have drawn the real "plum" of the 1922 schedule. May 20 is the day when Ruth's suspension, as well as that of Meusel, terminates.

Official bookings for the A. L. clubs for the American League schedule that the Browns are due to make their first appearance in New York on May 20. This falls on a Saturday. The Browns also get in on the "big spoils" the following day, which is Sunday. The Browns are booked for four contests in Gay Gotham on this trip. All of which should help the club treasury unless the eminent Chicago jurist comes to the rescue of the New Yorkers and reinstates the Bambino before the time limit is up.

The 1922 schedule shows that the opening of the Western cities and close on Sunday, Oct. 1. The opening games are as follows: Browns at Chicago, Detroit at Cleveland, New York at Washington, Philadelphia at Boston.

In addition to getting the two above mentioned "plums" the Browns were given 12 Saturday and Sunday dates at home, while they also were awarded Decoration day and Labor day. The schedule on the road includes 13 Saturdays, 10 Sundays and July 4.

18 Sundays at Washington. In handing out the "plums" the schedule makers did not overlook the two Eastern cities, in which Sunday baseball is permitted. Washington was given 18 Saturdays, as well as two holiday dates. New York's bookings show 12 Saturdays and two holiday dates. Of the Western cities, Detroit and Cleveland were awarded 13 Saturdays.

The schedule shows one regularly arranged double-header, that between the Browns and Athletics at Philadelphia, Aug. 19.

There will be three conflicting dates this year, all of them at Chicago. The days are July 1 and 2 and Sept. 10. This is probably the first time in many years that on successive days major league contests have been played at two parks in the same city. The Tigers will be the rivals for the White Sox on these dates.

New York—George Pfeiffer of Toronto, won the international amateur boxing championship 125-pound class, defeating Dan Garland of Philadelphia. Nat Pincus, New York, won the 112-pound class championship, defeating Hank Carfang, Philadelphia.

Some claim that Babe was the victim of curves in the w. s. Others say it was a case of nerves. Maybe it was a little of both.

Peewee Kaiser to Box Al Walker 12 Rounds At Coliseum on Feb. 21

JOHN "PEEWEE" KAISER, St. Louis' lightest little boxer, and Al Walker, a rugged, hard-hitting Pacific coast star of good class, have been matched to box at the Coliseum Feb. 21, the Angeles Club announced today. The match is to be a 12-round limit affair, with the weight 118 pounds at 3 o'clock. This match was originally announced by the Lafayette Club for Feb. 15, but was abandoned by the managers of the boxes when it was learned that the Police Board Boxing Committee would not grant the club a date.

Walker has fought once here, against Roy Moore, with whom he boxed a draw. He showed plenty of determination and a good right-hand body punch, although Moore was too fox to permit a full display of the Walker war.

The Kaiser-Walker match is considered the most interesting bantam event arranged for this city during the present campaign, except the Pal Moore-Kaiser contest, which was won by the "local pride."

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Harry Greb and Tom Gibbons will box 15 rounds to a decision in Madison Square Garden on Monday, March 13. It was announced here last night. The profit that accrues from the match, and it should run into thousands of dollars, will be donated by "Tex" Rickard to the New York milk fund.

This bout will be a supreme test for Tom Gibbons, the man who is, or was, matched to box Georges Carpentier, and who has been mentioned prominently as a likely opponent for Jack Dempsey in a championship battle. Those who decry Gibbons' chances against Dempsey point to the fact that up to date he has not decisively beaten a "real topnotcher" most of his victims having been of the "set up" variety. He knocked out 21 of 24 foes last year and has one "knockout" to his credit this year.

Greb, however, can hardly be classed as "an easy mark." Harry is recognized as the "tough" of the heavyweight class. Even Jack Dempsey sported a black eye for several weeks as a token of Greb's prowess, when he helped condition the champion for one of his important contests.

Chicago.—The North Shore polo team will meet the Detroit polo team at Detroit Saturday.

VAN HEUSEN
The World's Smartest COLLAR

THE VAN HEUSEN Collar is the greatest innovation in men's dress since the old, high, stiff-brimmed beaver gave place to the modern, soft felt hat.

No other collar can compare with the VAN HEUSEN, because no other collar is made from the same seamless fabric.

And men wear the VAN HEUSEN Collar for the same reasons that they wear the soft felt hat: it is better looking and more comfortable.

The trim dignity of the VAN HEUSEN is not starched nor ironed into it, but woven and tailored into it.

The VAN HEUSEN Collar is as trim as a Tuxedo; as stylish as it is starchless; and as correct as it is comfortable.

Men who scorned soft collars wear it and praise it. And fastidious men—men who like a slight suggestion of the formal, or the severe, in their attire—are fast friends of the VAN HEUSEN Collar.

Nine styles and heights, quarter sizes from 13½ to 18, price fifty cents. Will outwear a half-dozen ordinary collars.

If four dealer cannot supply you with the VAN HEUSEN Collar and the VAN CRAFT Shirt (a soft white shirt with the VAN HEUSEN Collar attached) write us for address of one that can.

BEER NOT A NECESSARY MEDICINE, JUDGE SAYS

Willis-Campbell Act Upheld as Constitutional From Federal Bench in Brooklyn.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Holding that beer is not necessary in medical practice, Federal Judge Garvin in Brooklyn yesterday refused to grant a preliminary injunction restraining Federal officials from interfering with the manufacture and sale of beer for medicinal purposes.

and at the same time upheld the constitutionality of the Willis-Campbell anti-her act.

Judge Garvin's ruling was in an action instituted by Mel Bros., brewers. Argument was heard several weeks ago. Former District Attorney Olcott, counsel for the brewers, contended that the law was unconstitutional because it interfered with the right of a physician to treat a patient and the right of the patient to receive such treatment.

Congress did not have sufficient power to enact such a statute. He submitted affidavits from 33 physicians, who held beer to be an essential in practice.

In his decision, Judge Garvin said: "Without the eighteenth amendment the Willis-Campbell act would have been an attempted exercise of police power. That power has never been delegated by the states to the Federal Government. If, however, Congress cannot effectively enforce the provisions of the amendment involved except by the exercise of police power, it is well settled that it may exert such power."

"Before the Willis-Campbell bill was enacted Congress conducted a careful investigation into the medicinal qualities of beer. Little was then said in its favor as a therapeutic."

"It would therefore appear that Congress deemed this legislation imperative to accomplish effective enforcement of the amendment, and at the same time was satisfied that there is little or no value in beer as a therapeutic agent. The latter is disputed, bitterly disputed, by the complainant, which, on the hearing of the motion, filed numerous affidavits by physicians that beer has value as a medicine and is frequently prescribed under various conditions."

Increases the action of the intestines

Hundreds of men and women have already found freedom from laxatives by eating Fleischmann's fresh yeast.

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of waste matter should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indispensable use of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy. In some cases of constipation, normal functions were restored in from 3 days to 5 weeks.

Try it out for yourself. Begin today by adding 2 or 3 cubes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your everyday diet. Keep it up and see how naturally and regularly your intestines act. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar diamond package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.

FABLES for the FAIR

MARRYING THE BOSS

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

MORAL—A Little Knowledge of the Man Who Wants to Marry You Is a Dangerous Thing—for Him.

ONE stenographer out of every ten marries her boss.

That's the proportion in Chicago, according to one of the city's business overlanders.

And if Chicago business girls get away with it as often as that, consider the chances of the native girl.

St. Louis girls have a way with them.

It is probably safe to estimate that in St. Louis

One stenographer out of every FIVE marries her boss.

If she wants him for a husband! But does she?

Trial marriage is in these latitudes, a bit difficult.

Even if undertaken from the highest social biological motives.

Other people, including the police, simply refuse to understand them! But one simple, safe and efficient method.

Of ascertaining beforehand whether you'd like to be married to a certain man—

Is to work for him in his office.

First of all.

You find out what he looks like.

On the morning when he got up too late to shave.

Or on the hottest day in summer, when he is coatless, vestless, collarless, necktieless.

Or on the day after he's had a tooth pulled.

And is giving a facial imitation of half-perfection mumps.

Then you discover

All his forty-nine varieties of grouch:

The grouch that comes into the office with him in the morning.

Probably it was born of two weak breakfast coffee, or a breakfast egg imperfectly cooked, or home hothead.

Then morning mail grouch.

The "Snail-Hearted" Man

By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB

HE is found in many a home—the man with the heart of a snail. He moves slowly, oh, so slowly! He crawls in his shell most of the time and insists on his household going with him in his slow-moving way.

He is the kind of a man a little woman wrote to me about: the kind of man who makes life just one word, did, slow thing after another. How she has slaved and toiled and brought his children into the world and mothered them and fathered them and had to steal their pleasures for them—all because she had a husband with the heart of a snail.

Of all the home-breakers and heart-breakers, he is the worst variety because his movements belong in the scale of another century. His pulse can never be quickened sufficiently to spur him on to do something different. He plods along. Oh, yes, he probably gets there some time in eternity, but in the meantime he is everlastingly pained by.

And this wife of his has skimmed and saved, longing for that "some" day when his heart would open and let something of the joy of life come in. But it seems hopeless!

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE.

THE ROLLING STONE

YOUTH is the time for travel. Before burdens and responsibilities accumulate, one can see the world with more independence and with less hurry to get back to the grind.

Don't be afraid of being called a rolling stone. If you have a chance to travel when you are young, take it.

Seeing other lands and learning other tongues will broaden your viewpoint. It will enable you to live in half a dozen worlds, all of them big and interesting, instead of in the single little world that is the world of your state or city, or of the people of your own speech.

Even if it is impossible for you in youth to go abroad, see all you can of your own land. Travel costs much money, unless you are willing to submit to inconveniences; but it repays the sacrifice of saving for it, as it repays the hardships which those who take it inexpensively must suffer.

After you are sure of an education—which is only travel by means of books—see all of the world that you can see. Save money for the specific purpose of spending it in travel. When it is so spent, consider it as an investment instead of a sum wasted in pleasure.

You can live life only once; and it will be far more interesting to you if you have seen, during its course, many lands, or at least many states and cities.

There will come long, hard, laborious years when you must settle down to build up the competence that is to make you independent, and to do the things that every man should do for his fellow men.

These years will be more happy and more profitable if you have traveled in youth, and seen how many peoples it has required to make up this busy world.

Travel brings memories, and it inspires thought. It gives you a wide outlook on the world and a wide outlook on life. Travel if you can, while your mind is young and sensitive to impressions.

If you put it off too long you will gain far less pleasure from it. And then, too, Fate may decide that you are not to travel at all, except to that undiscovered country of which you will never be able to tell your fellows.

Making Her Look Her Best

By DORIS DOSCHER.

THE Care of the Hair.

THERE is nothing that gives such a crowning distinction to a woman as a luxuriant growth of well-kept hair. The appearance of any face is improved and softened by a frame of soft tresses that by their coloring and texture show the good breeding and careful attention of their owner. There is nothing that takes away from the general good appearance of any one like a scalp that is covered with dandruff or ill kept locks that give a frothy appearance and seem unacquainted with a comb and brush.

So much can be done to improve not only the appearance, but the health of the hair that it bespeaks a lady nature that will not give proper time and thought to its care. After long periods of neglect it calls for great perseverance and patience to give the proper treatment to the hair so that it will really look its best, but the scalp responds very readily to scientific treatment. Remember that when faults and disease of the hair and scalp have existed for months and years you cannot expect to overcome these evils in a few days.

Since so many of you have bobbed your locks, it is a splendid time to encourage the circulation in the scalp. Take infinite patience with the brushing and grooming of the hair and the proper shampooing, as all of these things are so much more easily accomplished when the hair is short. Be careful not to fall into the evil way and ruin the growth of the hair by excessive curling or your effort to make the bobbed locks fluff out.

The hair of a human being is similar in structure to that of a finger-nail. In other words, it is made up of the cuticle or scurf skin. The part of the hair falling beyond the skin is like a rod, varying in color, length, texture and curl with every individual. The hair springs from a tubular depression in the scalp. Its root, which is softer than the hair proper, rests upon a tip of tissue, and from this it derives its nourishment, and this nourishment is carried to it by the blood vessels. That is why I so urgently advise you to pay attention to the circulation, so as to keep the roots of the hair well supplied. For then the hair will grow and the oil will be in normal condition and the hair will not dry, split and lose its color.

I have received many letters asking me why it is that, after the winter is here, the hair has lost its gloss and seems to acquire a dull appearance. This is due mainly to lack of ventilation to the hair and the long hours of confinement in the house. You will find that by airing and brushing the hair as often as possible you can overcome this and give to the hair a new liveliness. The care of the hair is a science, and it is in which you shampoo it, as well as the general condition of your health, are all important in making the hair a real crown of glory.

How many times in the future would not her words come back to torture him with doubt. Had it been the right thing to do? Ought he to have stayed? But it was too late now. By his own action he had written the end to the story.

Finished! The word seemed blazoned across the grey sky and the brown, barren field.

The first ray of morning sunshine pierced the clouds and touched the Fortune Hunter's haggard face with kindly radiance. The beginning of a new day, which for him was the end of everything, was dawning. There was probably no more miserable man in Somerton that night than old Fernie, as he walked slowly away from Cherry Lodge through the dark garden, the white wrap flying about his head like misty wings.

He felt—for the first time in his life—like a man who had been worsted; for the first time in his life, too, he had awakened to the realization that he was getting an old man, and that there was not a son in the world who would care if he died tomorrow.

The fact that he had never had a son he had almost forgotten until the truth came to him, but now as he walked back to Long End Cottage he was realizing that old age might not, after all, be such a bad thing, and that he was not so old as he felt. He had been so old and so alone that he had lost touch with the world, and he had lost touch with the world.

Old Fernie stopped and looked behind him through the darkness to where the lights from Cherry Lodge still shone dimly through the fast thinning trees.

Should he go back and try to reason with the boy again? He took an impulsive step forward, then stopped. His errand would be useless, he knew—Robert had all his mother's obstinacy.

"An old, old man!" Fernie thought the words echoing dimly through his mind as he went on his way. That was what he was; an old man whom nobody wanted; a quarrelsome old busy-body, his son had called him, and he chuckled softly to himself as he recalled the Fortune Hunter's words.

"I shall never see him again," old Fernie thought, and his dragging steps came again to a standstill, and once more he looked back at the house behind the trees. He knew in his heart, that neither Mr. Harding nor Annie had guessed that in the morning the Fortune Hunter would have gone—vanished from their lives as strangely and suddenly as he had entered them—and with sudden death his teeth gripped tightly over the stem of his pipe, his brows meeting in a shaggy frown.

"He shall not go! I'll not have my son kicked out as if he'd done something to be ashamed of! So the old man argued, illogically to himself, willfully blinding himself to the fact that the Fortune Hunter had done many things of which he must be ashamed.

He went round by the road, keeping as much as possible to the shadows and out of the moonlight until he reached the gate of Cherry Lodge garden.

There he knocked up at the house. There was a light in one window and

The Fortune Hunter

(An Absorbing Love Story.)

By RUBY AYERS

Forty-Fifth Installment.

At the end of the village a signpost stood at cross-roads, and the Fortune Hunter glanced up at the directions mechanically.

"To London," Garry Cannon was there, and would be glad to see him, he knew, but he was in no mood for Cannon's blunt sympathy, and it was deliberately that he turned and struck across the fields through which he had come to Somerton that first day.

The entrance to the woods where he had found the body of John Smith was strewn with dead and dying leaves. The footpath was almost covered with them. The tall bracken was brown and withered and helplessly bending earthwards.

It was autumn in the world, autumn in the Fortune Hunter's heart, as he went on, without glancing to the right or left, and out into the field on the other side, shut off by the five-barred gate.

It was here that he had sat a little less than seven weeks ago, on his eight-and-twentieth birthday, and counted his few remaining shillings. He had been happy, in a careless way, and since then he had known a far greater happiness, mingled with all the sorrow of the world. And now that, too, was ended, and it seemed to the Fortune Hunter almost as if life itself must end there for him.

He put his arms on the top of the gate and looked across the barren field to the wood beyond and the thin spire of Somerton Church, which was all he could see of the village. The river and Cherry Lodge were shut out by the trees, but he saw them all as faithfully as if they were there before his eyes, as he would see them to his dying day.

And he thought of Anne, and the way she had clung to him only last night on the dark landing. "If you had left me, I should have followed you to the end of the world. Promise me you will stay—promise me!"

How many times in the future would not her words come back to torture him with doubt. Had it been the right thing to do? Ought he to have stayed? But it was too late now. By his own action he had written the end to the story.

Finished! The word seemed blazoned across the grey sky and the brown, barren field.

The first ray of morning sunshine pierced the clouds and touched the Fortune Hunter's haggard face with kindly radiance. The beginning of a new day, which for him was the end of everything, was dawning. There was probably no more miserable man in Somerton that night than old Fernie, as he walked slowly away from Cherry Lodge through the dark garden, the white wrap flying about his head like misty wings.

He had been so old and so alone that he had lost touch with the world, and he had lost touch with the world.

Old Fernie stopped and looked behind him through the darkness to where the lights from Cherry Lodge still shone dimly through the fast thinning trees.

Should he go back and try to reason with the boy again? He took an impulsive step forward, then stopped. His errand would be useless, he knew—Robert had all his mother's obstinacy.

"An old, old man!" Fernie thought the words echoing dimly through his mind as he went on his way. That was what he was; an old man whom nobody wanted; a quarrelsome old busy-body, his son had called him, and he chuckled softly to himself as he recalled the Fortune Hunter's words.

"I shall never see him again," old Fernie thought, and his dragging steps came again to a standstill, and once more he looked back at the house behind the trees. He knew in his heart, that neither Mr. Harding nor Annie had guessed that in the morning the Fortune Hunter would have gone—vanished from their lives as strangely and suddenly as he had entered them—and with sudden death his teeth gripped tightly over the stem of his pipe, his brows meeting in a shaggy frown.

"He shall not go! I'll not have my son kicked out as if he'd done something to be ashamed of! So the old man argued, illogically to himself, willfully blinding himself to the fact that the Fortune Hunter had done many things of which he must be ashamed.

He went round by the road, keeping as much as possible to the shadows and out of the moonlight until he reached the gate of Cherry Lodge garden.

There he knocked up at the house. There was a light in one window and one in the study downstairs, but as Fernie laid his hand on the latch of the gate to lift it the downstairs light flickered and went out.

Well—he could wait. That was all. He had been up all night more times before than he could remember, and tonight the game was well worth the candle. He fumbled in the pocket of his jacket for tobacco and matches, refilled the empty pipe, and leaned back against the closed gate, his eyes on the light in the surrounding trees. There the church clock on the other side of the river struck 12. Old Fernie coughed nervously, rammed the tobacco further down into the bowl of his pipe, but he never moved or altered his position against the gate.

Someone else beside old Fernie had kept watch during that long, misty night, and when the Fortune Hunter dropped from his window into the garden below, Anne saw him steal away across the lawn through the breaking dawn.

She had not closed her eyes all night. In her heart she had known that this would happen, and without a moment's hesitation, she caught up a wrap and went out onto the landing.

There was no sound in the house, but as she went swiftly down the stairs, someone moved in the shadow of the study door and Mr. Harding came toward her.

"Anne! Where are you going?" She stood quite still, warning him off with shaking hands. Her voice was wild when she answered him. "He's gone! Somehow I knew he meant to, and I am going with him. Let me go—oh, if you ever loved me!"

"He caught her hands in his; his cheery face was full of hard lines, but he was close beside him.

"My dear! Think what it means! It's the best for us all to let him go. He knows that the whole thing is impossible. If he stays, what happiness can there be for you with a man you can't trust—a man who has lied to you, and—"

She broke in passionately: "I love him, and he loves me. If he goes, I shall never be happy again."

"The man's worthless. He's taken the best way out. Ask anyone what they think. My dear, I'd give the world to see you happy, but this way is impossible."

She hardly seemed to hear; she broke from him and ran to the front door, drawing back the bolts with trembling fingers.

"You're losing me; you're wasting time. Oh, I don't care what you say; it makes no difference." She flung his hand off when he would have detained her. "Let me go, unless you want me! You've all been against him ever since he came—you and Tommy—you've both tried to ruin my happiness."

Anne dragged the door open and looked into the garden, the white wrap flying about her like misty wings.

She reached the gate breathless and sobbing. It was shut, and for a few seconds she bungled with the latch.

Which way had he gone? Which way? Was he too late already? She started to run down the road away from the village, then stopped, sobbing tearfully and wringing her hands.

There was no sign of anybody on the long barren road, and half distracted with dread, she had turned to go back toward the village when she saw Fernie.

His old face looked faded and pale in the morning light, and there was something pathetic in his eyes as he approached her, hat in hand.

Anne broke out pityingly: "Oh, which way did he go? Which way?"

Old Fernie pointed up the road with the stem of his pipe.

"He thought I didn't see him go, Miss Harding," he said hoarsely. "But that's the way he went." He laid his hand on her arm. "Bring him back, my dear," he implored; "bring him back."

Anne could not answer. She fled on up the deserted road and through the little village.

Too late! Too late! Something seemed to speak the words mockingly at her heart. Why had she hesitated a moment? What did anything lose in the world matter if she had lost him? Her love was strong enough to forgive the past, strong enough to face whatever lay awaiting her in the future.

The filmy wrap she wore was damp with the morning mist, and when some instinct turned her flying feet through the wood the brambles and bare twigs of the undergrowth caught her and tore it. But she went on unheeding till she came to the small clearing on the other side and saw the Fortune Hunter standing by the five-barred gate.

She stood still then, conscious of a sudden weakness, her breath coming in uneven gasps, the relief of having found him almost too great to be borne.

He stood looking out across the brown, barren field, the first streak of pale sunlight touching his wan face.

Anne crept nearer to him, her feet making no sound over the soft ground, till she was close beside him. Then she spoke his name—

"John!"

His face was drawn and haggard; all his gay carelessness had gone, and he looked years older and sadder, she thought brokenheartedly, as she lifted her arms and put them round his neck.

"I said if you left me I should follow you to the end of the world," she said, and her voice was quite steady now, her eyes met his unflinchingly. "I love you; there is no happiness for me without you."

He laid his hands on her wrists, trying to unclasp the arms that held him.

"It's impossible—think what the world will say! Think what I am—what I've been. Let me go—let me go!"

"If you can say truthfully that you don't want me—that you don't love me—"

"She began, then her voice broke. "Oh, my dear, do you think I care what anyone says? I've thought of it all, and it means nothing to me—nothing! I can forgive the past, it's nothing any more, because I love you."

"I've nothing to offer you; it's impossible. I—"

"Do you love me?"

"He tried not to meet her eyes, but they seemed to draw him against his will; he tried desperately to deny her then and then."

"Love isn't everything—if I—"

Then suddenly he broke down; his head fell forward till it rested on her shoulder, and she turned her face and kissed his hair.

For a long time neither of them spoke, then the Fortune Hunter spoke hoarsely: "Anne, you must go home; you shouldn't have come—if anyone saw you follow me—"

"They did see—and and and your father." She spoke calmly, she even smiled into his troubled face. "What can they say? I am not a child, and I have chosen for myself; I have chosen you. Wherever you go I shall go with you. You tell me to go home; I can only do that if you come with me, for my home is with you."

She stood back from him a little, looking earnestly into his face as if willing him to understand that every word she spoke was spoken from her heart, and not on the impulse of the moment.

"You may say what you like to offer me. I don't mind that. I offer me money—no, dear, don't turn away I want you to be glad, not sorry, because it means that we can go away together—somewhere!"

—she faltered a little—"and begin life again. You can work, and I shall be there for you to work for."

"I don't mind where you go; I don't mind what you do—"

She broke down into sudden crying. "Oh, if you choose to sweep a crossing I shall be only too happy to stand beside you rather than be left alone!" she sobbed between tears and laughing. "And after that don't you dare to tell me I must not come with you!"

He stood for a moment not ab-

more, because I love you."

"I've nothing to offer you; it's impossible. I—"

"Do you love me?"

"Love isn't everything—if I—"

Then suddenly he broke down; his head fell forward till it rested on her shoulder, and she turned her face and kissed his hair.

For a long time neither of them spoke, then the Fortune Hunter spoke hoarsely: "Anne, you must go home; you shouldn't have come—if anyone saw you follow me—"

"They did see—and and and your father." She spoke calmly, she even smiled into his troubled face. "What can they say? I am not a child, and I have chosen for myself; I have chosen you. Wherever you go I shall go with you. You tell me to go home; I can only do that if you come with me, for my home is with you."

She stood back from him a little, looking earnestly into his face as if willing him to understand that every word she spoke was spoken from her heart, and not on the impulse of the moment.

"You may say what you like to offer me. I don't mind that. I offer me money—no, dear, don't turn away I want you to be glad, not sorry, because it means that we can go away together—somewhere!"

—she faltered a little—"and begin life again. You can work, and I shall be there for you to work for."

"I don't mind where you go; I don't mind what you do—"

She broke down into sudden crying. "Oh, if you choose to sweep a crossing I shall be only too happy to stand beside you rather than be left alone!" she sobbed between tears and laughing. "And after that don't you dare to tell me I must not come with you!"

He stood for a moment not ab-

swering, his eyes on the hat, and the indecision in his face slowly to change to a determination and resolution.

Then he turned and took his arms, looking down at her face with something like a question in his eyes. "I'm not ought to be down in the garden, your feet, but I can't say my dear, I can't. We'll go together and begin life again; shall we regret it as we live?" Then he bent and kissed her.

He took her back to Cherry Lodge, but he was in with her, and she was absent when he said good-bye down to Long End Cottage.

There was no longer a him in her heart; the misunderstanding had been away forever; she loved him as she loved him, nothing could separate them.

She went into the house, happened in her own mind, and she could find no words to greet her when they met, but she went up to her room.

"Uncle, I'm going to be a doctor. I think it's a good idea. We're going abroad, aren't we?"

"Oh, my dear, I beg your pardon. I was just now, heaven knows, when we're going abroad, aren't we?"

CHEF'S WHEAT CAKES

SIFT two cups of flour with three teaspoons of baking powder, half a teaspoon of salt and one teaspoon of sugar. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs, one tablespoon of melted butter, one cup of milk and beat smooth, then stir in the well-beaten whites of the two eggs and bake on a well-greased hot iron griddle.
Maple syrup is served with the cakes, but very often they serve a syrup made by pouring one cup of boiling cider on two cups of sugar and stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Roll until clear, do not boil afterward.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 23—Self-Serving Match Box.

SOMEONE asks for a match.
When the box is pushed open they are startled to see the match raise itself right out of the box.
A little hole is made in the top of the box near the end, and a match is pushed through into the drawer of the box, all except the head, which sticks out a trifle, but will not be noticed. When the drawer is pushed open, the match is forced up through the hole, and comes out in a very mysterious manner.

The Heart of a Girl

A Story of Romance and a Business Career in St. Louis
By Caroline Crawford

CHAPTER 38.
Jack Reed Proves a Good Friend.
"How does a pretty girl usually fall in love with a homey man?"
This was a question Peggy had often asked Marion Minton when she noticed some of the prettiest girls in their set pairing off with some of the most unattractive men. But after she had talked to Jack Reed for a few minutes the night of her formal dance she began to solve the question. After all it was personality and pep that counted in a man and if ever two words fitted a person these fitted Jack Reed.
Jack's mother, Mrs. Reed, had been one of the chaperons at Peggy's dance and after the affair she and Mrs. Dayton talked things over late in the silly hours. There was nothing to do but for Jack and Peggy to become friends while the two matrons discussed color effects, pinks and blues.
"Why coming to your dance tonight was a total surprise to you, wasn't it?" asked Jack as they sat in an adjoining room.
He was short and fat and even at 25 slightly bald, but he had a twinkle in his eye which caught Peggy's attention. And there was a snap and a bite to everything he said, but it was the way he said it.
"Yes, I was totally surprised to see you," confessed Peggy. "In fact I didn't really know there was a Jack Reed."
"Well, your education certainly has been neglected," laughed Jack as he threw his head back and gave vent to his amusement. "Here I've been reared to think of Peggy Dayton as a perfect little creature who always did just the right thing and I supposed you had heard of Jack Reed as the little boy who always got in bad. When I was a little tot mother used to say, 'Why, I'm ashamed of you for putting your finger in the pie or breaking the best vase in the house; what do you suppose Peggy Dayton would think of you?'"
"I should have thought you would have hated me," giggled Peggy.
"Not on your life," countered Jack as his eyes twinkled. "On the contrary I always thought of you as the most charming fairy in the world and in a way I lived up to what I thought Peggy would do."
"You see, being an only child, my mother held you up as a sort of ideal sister, I suppose," continued Jack. "Occasionally mother would receive a letter from your mother and there would be some mention of you. For instance, I knew when you had the whooping cough, I knew when you graduated from high school and I know you have a beautiful named Harrison Townley and he sent you 18 roses on your eighteenth birthday."

his twinkling eyes three times in succession. Then she caught the spirit of his fun as she asked: "And did you know that Harrison Townley has just gone to Europe?"
"By George, that's a bit of news which was clean overlooked," exclaimed Jack, and then, becoming serious for the first time, he asked:
"But why on earth has your mother kept me a secret all this time to you when our mothers were such good chums in their school days? Do you mean to say you have never heard your mother mention J-a-c-k-i-e-Reed?"
"Never, and I have a good memory, too."
"Well, then, she must have been keeping me for a surprise for this very dance tonight and here I am ready to be your little Jack-in-the-box. I've been in Chicago, Philadelphia and now I'm going to be located in St. Louis. I can trot about with you while your mother would-be fiancee is in London seeing the Queen."
"Oh, so you are to be in St.
Louis?"
"He's to be his mother's escort back to the hotel now," announced Mrs. Reed, suddenly coming into the room as she kissed Peggy and her mother good night and Jack gave a farewell bat with his eyes.

RICE CROQUETTES

ONE-HALF cup rice, one-half cup boiling water, one cup acidified milk, one teaspoon salt, yolks two eggs, one tablespoon butter.
Wash rice, add to water with salt, cover and steam until rice has absorbed water. Then add milk, stir lightly with a fork, cover and steam over hot water until rice is soft. Remove from fire, add egg yolks and butter; spread on a shallow plate to cool.
Shape in cylinder form, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again, fry in deep fat and drain. Serve with cheese sauce made by adding half a cup of grated cheese to a cup of medium white sauce.

SAVORY SANDWICH.
Mince leftover chicken and a hardboiled egg and spread this mixture on a slice of hot buttered toast.
Over this place a bit of crisp lettuce, cover either with bottled dressing or mayonnaise. Put another slice of hot buttered toast on top of this and serve at once.

In years gone by parents in Persia were glad to be rid of little girls and sold them for a few dollars, but now there is a strong desire to educate them and industrial and other schools for the purpose have been established in that country.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess

SALT! Prickly Porky the Porcupine forgot everything else. He forgot all his troubles. He even forgot to be obstinate. His mouth watered and there was almost a sparkle in his dull little eyes as he followed that stick Farmer Brown's Boy was dragging along just in front of his nose. That stick was salt, for it had been dipped in a pail of salt water. Prickly Porky whined with eagerness as he followed that stick.
He even tried to run after it. He didn't care where it might take him to if only he could catch up with it and taste that delicious salt.
Presently Farmer Brown's Boy dropped the stick and Prickly Porky, with a sigh of happiness, began to gnaw off the bark and chew even the wood itself so as to get every bit of that salt. And while he was doing this Farmer Brown's Boy got an empty barrel and in it put some hemlock twigs which had been dipped in that salt water. Then he took the barrel over to where Prickly Porky was having such a good time and put it on its side with the open end toward Prickly Porky.
Watching his chance he snatched away the stick which Prickly Porky was chewing. Prickly Porky grunted and whined. He didn't see where the stick went to and he began to nose about for it. Then he smelled the salt in the barrel, and without hesitating an instant walked right in and contentedly began to eat the salt twigs in that.
Farmer Brown's Boy turned the barrel on end and there was Prickly Porky on the bottom of it, a prisoner, though he didn't know it. But he wouldn't have minded if he had known. Nothing mattered to him so long as he had that delicious salt.
Farmer Brown's Boy got his sled.
He put the barrel with Prickly Porky in it on the sled and started for the Green Forest.
"Take him away in," called Farmer Brown. "If you don't he may come poking around here again for more salt, and we don't want that to happen."

Farmer Brown's boy promised to take Prickly Porky far into the Green Forest, and away they went, very slowly and carefully. You see, Prickly Porky's boy didn't intend to take any chances of upsetting that barrel and spilling out Prickly Porky.
Of course Bowser the Hound went along, too. So did Sammy Jay. Sammy wouldn't have missed it for anything. Sammy knows that when anything unusual is going on almost anything may happen. Tommy the Chickadee also went along, and so did Chatterer the Red Squirrel.
He was very, very curious to know what Farmer Brown's boy was going to do with Prickly Porky.
Peter Rabbit happened to be on the edge of the Green Forest when he saw Farmer Brown's boy dragging the sled with the barrel on, and of course, right away his curiosity was aroused. So he, too, followed at a safe distance. You see, he didn't want to get too close to Bowser the Hound. Sammy Jay happened to look back and saw Peter. At once he flew over to him.
"Who do you think is in that barrel?" asked Sammy.
Peter shook his head. "Is someone in it?" he asked, suspecting Sammy of a joke.
But by the way Sammy nodded and then hurried on ahead he knew that someone was in that barrel, and of course, he was more curious than ever.
And so Prickly Porky had a strange ride, the first ride in all his life. And the funny thing is he didn't know it. No, sir, he didn't know it. He was so busy with those salty twigs in the bottom of the barrel that he didn't even notice he was being carried somewhere.

Better Meats— Cleaner Meats— Quicker Service

There's real joy in serving your guests wholesome tender meats

There's great pleasure in being able to furnish your guests tempting, wholesome, deliciously cooked meats. They remember it—their compliments are sincere and pleasing. And there's a great deal of satisfaction in knowing that your roast is tender, juicy, appetizing, with that indescribable natural flavor.

Authorities tell us that to remain perfectly wholesome fresh meats must be kept at a low temperature—near the freezing point.
When this is done the rich juices in the meats are fully developed.
They are more tender, more savory, more easily cooked.

By keeping their meats continually near the freezing temperature Husmannized meat markets are equipped to sell you choice cuts that are a revelation in wholesomeness. The exclusive dry cold air circulation within the walls of the Husmann Patented Freezer Display Counter reacts upon the tissues of the meats and renders them tender and delicious.

You can tell all Husmannized

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

(One of a series of short funny stories by the celebrated American humorist which appear daily in the Post-Dispatch on this page.)

IN FACT, A POSITIVE PAD.

NOT long ago a very wise literary critic suggested in my presence the attractiveness of the idea of compiling a funny book about hangings. He pointed out that there were scores of yarns, all dealing more or less humorously with the unhumorous subject of hangings, legal and otherwise; he thought such a work might enjoy a large sale. And he thought, too, that a suitable beginning for the volume might be found in the ancient anecdote of the shipwrecked mariner who, after drifting a few days on an improvised raft, was carried by a friendly current within sight of a strange land. As he drew nearer he saw some men on the shore erecting a gallows, and, falling upon his knees, cried out: "Thank heaven, I have reached a Christian country!"

I do not know whether my friend will ever carry out his threat of compiling such a work, but if he ever does, I claim the collection will be incomplete unless in his pages he includes the narrative pertaining to that colored person who was condemned to death on the scaffold, and who was unable to readjust himself to the prospect. The nearer the date of the execution came the greater became the reluctance on his part, until toward the end it amounted with him to what might be called a positive diffidence.

On the night before the fatal day a clergyman sat with the prisoner striving by counsel and admonition to prepare him for the ordeal.

"My brother, my poor brother," said the minister, soothingly, "try to face the fate which confronts you on the morrow with courage and resolution. Remember that thousands and thousands before you all through the ages, some justly condemned, some unjustly, have suffered this same punishment with fortitude. Even the early Christian martyrs died much as you must die."

"Yes, sub. I know," quavered the condemned, "but—but it was a hobby with them."

EVOLUTION.

When Bonehead, the cave man, went wooing. He called at the young lady's home, Preceding the billing and cooing. With a few heavy taps on her dome. He had no occasion to murmur Soft nothings, or whispers of praise. Their methods were swifter—and firmer! They said it with clubs in those days.

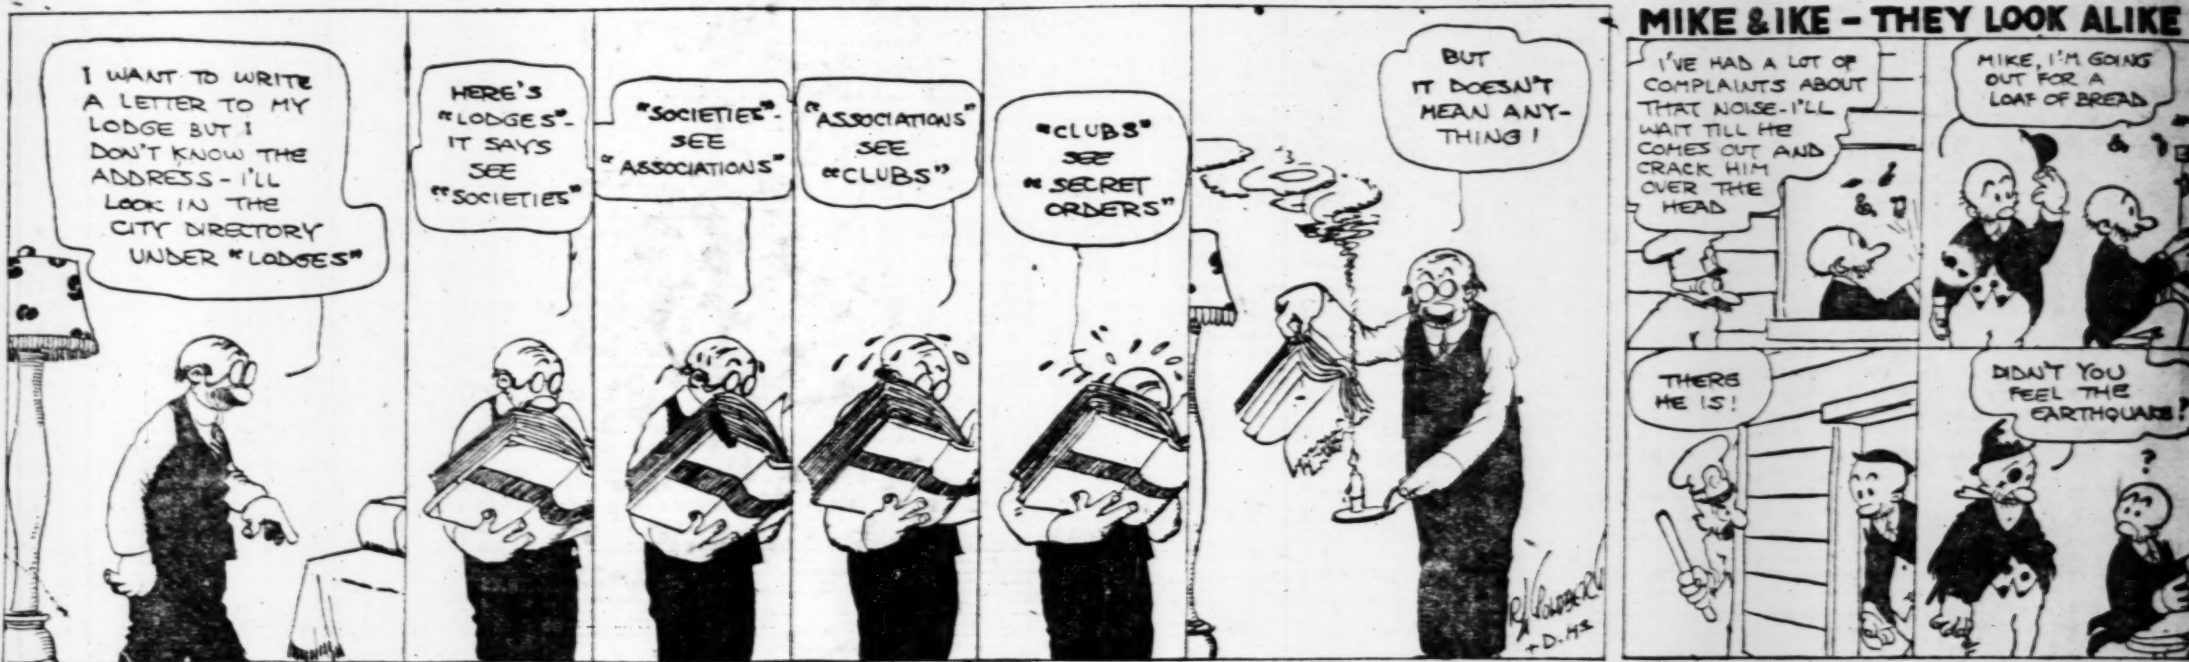

When later dawned civilization. The lover became more discreet. He always began a flirtation With something the lady could eat. He knew that the best way to win her Was to search through the moonland and fen Till he found her the makings of dinner. They said it with cabbages, then.

In the days when our mothers were courted. The lovers who hoped for success To far finer methods resorted. They hunted the fields and the forests. Doozling their loveless lovers. Or else they repaired to the florist's. But always they said it with flowers.

Today when a lover goes wooing. He never will run any chance Of the jaded young sweetheart's pool-pooling. The gifts of a weakling romance. He knows, does the up-to-date lover. The gift that affection provides. And he has been quick to discover That it's wisest to say it with roses!

AGREEMENT ON 9 SOURCES OF TAXES FOR BONUS FUND

House Committee Inc. in Program 2½ Per Cent Levy on Undivided Profits of Corporations; One a Gallon Tax on Gas Planned.

LEVY OF 25 CENTS A POWER OF AU

10 Per Cent Tax on Admission Admissions to Doubled on Charges Cents or More; Increase on Cigarettes and Tobacco

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—A bill to increase the tax on the profits of corporations as part of the soldiers' bonus revenue plan was agreed today by a Ways and Means Subcommittee.

A slight increase in parcel rates to yield a total of $20.8 a year also is understood to have been agreed upon.

The committee decided to levy on bank checks.

Other sources of revenue are as follows:

One cent a gallon on gas estimated to yield $10,000,000.

Twenty-five cents per horse on automobiles, $50,000,000.

Five dollars per $1000 on estate transfers, $20,000,000.

Increased documentary stamp with the rate of transfer of and bonds at one-tenth of cent, $64,000,000.

Double the present 10 per tax on amusement admission

where the charge exceeds 25

$70,000,000.

and on cigarettes, $25,000,000.

An increase of 2 cents a

on chewing and smoking

$5,000,000.

Taxes to Be Temporary.

The bonus taxes will be temporary, Acting Chairman Long said, extending over a period of three years and will be designed solely to care of the cash payments to made to former service men

the two and one-half years ending Jan. 1, 1932. It was said that the cost of the four options to be included in the measure would be spread over years and would not begin to serious charge against the Treasury for several years at

Members of the subcommittee urged that on the basis of additional attractions of adtion features were planned.

One important change was the committee striking out visions requiring the Army and
